Abbreviations

Do not abbreviate the following:

assistant, associate, association, department, institution, avenue, street, boulevard, or similar address words, campus department names, campus building names, months, state names

Academic Degrees

For standard abbreviations, please refer to the lists found under D - Degrees. You may choose to spell out full academic degree names or abbreviate them, so long as you apply your choice consistently within any given printed piece. Do not use periods in the abbreviated form, e.g., BA, DMA, MS, PhD.

Addresses

When writing street addresses, do not include periods after directions or streets.
e.g., 1302 N Indiana St

Businesses

Use Corp. or Co. in text only if it is officially part of the company name. For example: Black and Veach Co. Otherwise, spell out the words corporation and company. doing business as may be abbreviated d/b/a if its meaning is clear.

For other business-related abbreviations, refer to the APStylebook.

Miscellaneous Abbreviations

ID for identification (no periods)
pp. for pages; p. for page states (see S - States in this guide)

Affirmative Action Statement

The University operates under a nondiscriminatory policy with regards to race, color, gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, creed or religion, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, and all federally protected groups/classes.

Ages

Use numerals to express persons' ages. Do not use a space on either side of the hyphen (not a dash) when indicating an age spread (this is UE style.)
e.g., The children were ages 5-15.
Sammy is 5 years old.
Her daughter, 9-year-old June, swims in the lake.

Ampersands

Do not use ampersands unless they are officially part of a company name.

RIGHT: Tom and Dave went riding.

WRONG: Tom & Dave went riding.

RIGHT: Mr. and Mrs. Smith donated a painting.

WRONG: Mr. & Mrs. Smith donated a painting.

RIGHT: We shopped at Briar & Bean.

Apostrophes

Be sure to use actual apostrophes and quotations marks rather than foot and inch marks. This applies to both serif and sans-serif fonts.

RIGHT (in serif): Tom said, "Doesn't that table measure 4'2"?"

WRONG (in serif): Tom said, "Doesn't that table measure 4'2'?"

RIGHT (in sans-serif): Tom said, "Doesn't that table measure 4'2"?"

WRONG (in sans-serif): Tom said, "Doesn't that table measure 4'2'?"

An 's indicates possession; do not use it to indicate something is plural.

RIGHT: In the 1960s we had fun.

WRONG: In the 1960's we had fun.

RIGHT: The Lambda Chi's held a fundraiser.

WRONG: The Lambda Chi's held a fundraiser.

Use an apostrophe to abbreviate a 4-digit year using just the last two digits. Do not use an opening single quotation mark.

RIGHT: In the '60s we had fun.

WRONG: In the '60s we had fun.

Asterisk

An asterisk in your text signals the reader that there is a reference note at the bottom of the page. Make sure there is; if not, delete the asterisk in your text. If you require more than one reference note on a page, there is a series of symbols to be used in the following order: *, †, ‡, §, **, ††, †‡, §§.

Building Names and Codes

When listing a room and a building together, always list the room first, then the building.

e.g., Room 200, Hyde Hall

When listing a room with a name, list the name first, next the room number, then the building

e.g., Eykamp Hall, Room 253, Ridgway University Center.

The following abbreviations are used to identify campus buildings and locations on maps. In text, always use full names of buildings, as shown here.

(See "Campus Locations" and "Colleges/Schools Departments/Offices" under C for other names.)

Capitalization

Rules for what to and what not to capitalize are extensive. Refer to the APStylebook for specifics.

Capitalizing Academic and Job Titles

Capitalize if the title is used in narrative text.

e.g., John Doe, Associate Professor of Biology, is teaching a class.

The President made an announcement.

Titles are capitalized when they precede a person's name and become part of the proper noun.

e.g., The recital will include original music by Professor Doe.

The address was given by President Pietruszkiewicz.

Capitalize titles if they are in list or program format, used independently of narrative text.

e.g., Program Speakers

John Doe, Professor of Chemistry
Jane Doe, Professor Emerita
John Smith, President

Capitalizing Academic Subjects

Academic subjects and programs are capitalized.
e.g., I take several Chemistry courses.
He teaches in the Department of Mathematics.
She is majoring in Public Health.

Capitalizing Committees and Boards

Capitalize complete, proper names:
e.g., Board of Trustees, Board of Directors, Building and Grounds Committee

Do not capitalize general references to committees and boards, nor shortened versions of the name.
e.g., He serves on the board.
The trustees made a decision.
The committee has taken it under review.

Capitalizing Department, Office, and Company Names

Capitalize references that use the full name of a department, office, or company.
e.g., She works for the Office of Student Financial Services.

Do not capitalize shortened versions.
e.g., The department will provide tutors.

Capitalizing Degree Names

Capitalize complete names of specific degrees, but do not capitalize degrees when used generally. (Chgo 8.28) Also capitalize the major field of study if mentioned after the degree. For a complete list of degree names, please refer to D - Degrees in this guide.
e.g., She has a Master of Arts in History.
He has a bachelor's degree in History.

Capitalizing Headlines and Titles

Refer to the APStylebook.

Capitalizing Words with a Prefix

When a prefix (with hyphen), such as Pre-, is used in a headline, title, or list, the letter immediately following the hyphen is not capitalized unless it is a proper noun or proper adjective. (Chgo 7.85 [4])
e.g., List of Study Areas:
Pre-veterinary Pre-medicine

Capitalizing the Word University

Capitalize University in mid-sentence when it refers specifically to the University of Evansville. (This is UE style).
e.g., The University [meaning UE] offers a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Do not capitalize university if it is a general reference.
e.g., A university education should be challenging.

Centuries

AP style offers two recommendations based on number value: (1) single-digit centuries should be written as lowercased words and (2) double-digit centuries should be written as numerals:
e.g., fifth century
the 18th century poet
21st Century Scholars

Certificates

Formatting should follow this consistent format:
Year/Certificate name Awarded to Name, credentials
Title
In recognition of...
Signature lines w/ name, credentials, and title

Colleges

In your first reference, use the full name and capitalize it.
Subsequent references may be shortened to the college,
using lowercase letters.
William L. Ridgway College of Arts and Sciences
College of Education and Health Sciences
College of Business and Engineering
Harlaxton College

Commas

UE uses a serial comma in a list of nouns.
e.g., She chose purple, white, and orange for her bedroom colors.

An introductory adverbial phrase is often set off by a comma but need not be unless misreading is likely. Shorter adverbial phrases are less likely to merit a comma than longer ones.

e.g., After reading the note, Henrietta turned pale.
On the other hand, his vices could be considered virtues.

After 1956 such complaints about poor fidelity became far less common.

but

Before eating, the members of the committee met in the assembly room.

To Anthony, Blake remained an enigma.

Use a comma before and after a state name (or nation) when it follows a town.

e.g., Evansville, Indiana, is a good place to live.

When three or more elements of a date are used, set the year off with commas.

e.g., On October 6, 2003, we had an open house.
In October 2003 there were three open houses.

A comma or period should be placed inside a closing quotation mark.

e.g., "I cannot attend," she said.

Do not use a comma before an abbreviation that is part of a person's name. Chicago style allows some latitude on this rule. UE follows the examples below.

e.g., Martin Luther King Jr.

Dexter Harrison III

Do not use a comma before or after Inc. or Ltd. in a business name.

e.g., University Productions Co. Inc.

Lilly Endowment Inc.

Committees

Capitalize committee names when used in their full form. Lowercase the letters when shortening the term after first using the correct full name.

Computer-related Terminology

For computer technology terms, the Chicago Manual recommends following style guidelines found in The New Hacker's Dictionary, "Hacker Writing Style," by Eric S. Raymond.

email (do not use a hyphen for e-anything, unless it is a company name that does)

homepage

internet

intranet (an organization's internal network of HTML pages; they are not on the Internet, but rather are accessible from the company's LAN or WAN, and usually require password authorization) login (noun) e.g., My login is whosonfirst.

log on (verb) e.g., I am authorized to log on to that website.

logon (adj) e.g., The logon process requires authorization to access a site.

logon (noun) e.g., My logon is yoeditthis.

log off (verb) e.g., She logged off as soon as hewalked into the room.

online (one word, no hyphen)

web

webmaster (one word)

webpage

website

World Wide Web

Contractions

Contractions are allowed when appropriate. This decision will be ultimately made by the editor.

Course Names

Use initial capitals in the name of a course. Refer to the most recent course catalog to verify correct name and number.

e.g., The History of Religion will be offered next year.

Do not capitalize if reference uses general terms: e.g., A course on the history of religion will be offered next semester.

Use Roman numerals for sequential numbering in name of a course.

e.g., Calculus I, Calculus II, Calculus III

Credit Lines

Do not capitalize the b in by for an author's byline. e.g., by Susan Smith

Credit must be given to photographers when the work is done by off-campus or professional photographers. Be sure you have written documentation for reproduction permission.

e.g., Photograph by Chris Berneking Photography

Currency

When it is appropriate to spell out an amount of money, do so for both the number and the currency.

e.g., The class has a materials fee of five dollars.

If only even dollar amounts are used, do not include .00 with the numeral figures. If one figure requires the use of cents numbers, consistently use on all.

e.g., In addition to the $135 activity fee, you will be assessed a $30 health fee.

Your residence hall fee is $2,100.50 and your meal plan costs $2,200.00.

Very large amounts may be expressed as a mixture of numerals and words.

e.g., Lilly awarded UE $15 million to enhance its business school.

datum (singular); data (plural)

e.g., The data are shown in the graph.

Davidson Academic Scholarship Days

day care (two words)

d/b/a – doing business as

Dean's Council

Dean's List

decision making (noun), decision-making (adjective)

direct entry

dormitory – Do not use this word. Use residence hall instead.

downtown Evansville

Dates

Use cardinal, not ordinal, numbers for dates. RIGHT, May 2; June 20, 2010

WRONG, May 2nd; May 2nd; June 20th, 2010

Academic years are referenced with six digits except when appropriate in a headline or cover page. Use a hyphen with no word spaces.

e.g., 2009-10 (usual);

2003-2004 (for cover pages or in headlines)

Use Fall 2010 instead of in the fall of 2010 when referring to specific semesters. (UE style)

Months should be spelled out, not abbreviated.

UE uses the “month day, year” format for dates.

e.g., December 23, 1984

When three or more elements of a date are used in a sentence, set the year off with commas.

e.g., The lecture took place on Monday, October 6, 2009, on the UE campus.

When only two elements of a date are used, no comma is needed.

e.g., She will graduate in May 2012.

Use a word space on both sides of a hyphen (not a dash) when indicating a spread of dates. (UE style)

e.g., June 23 - 28

Degrees

You may choose to spell out full academic degree names or abbreviate them. Apply your choice consistently within any given printed piece. Do not use periods in the abbreviated form.

Capitalize specific degree names.

e.g., He earned a Doctor of Musical Arts.

Jane’s Bachelor of Arts in Marketing was useful in landing her dream job.

Do not capitalize general terms: associate’s, bachelor’s, master’s, doctorate.

e.g., She earned a bachelor’s degree in Chemistry.

Ellipsis

An ellipsis (...) is a single character, not three consecutive periods, that indicates the omission of text from a quoted passage. On a Mac computer it can be generated by pressing option while typing a semicolon. In Microsoft Word you can set your preferences to automatically convert three periods, when typed, into an ellipsis.

Email Addresses

Be careful not to introduce a hyphen into an email address when it breaks onto two lines. Try to reword your sentence to avoid breaking the address.

e.g., Send your query via e-mail to `whatyourname@whatsite.org`, for attention.

or,

Email `whatyourname@whatsite.org` for answers to your questions.

Style rules for numbers are as varied as the uses of numbers in text. Please refer to the APStylebook for situations not described below.

In general, UE uses the Associated Press style, not Chicago style, to determine whether or not to spell out a number in text.

One through nine, spell out; use numerals for 10 and above

For ordinal numbers, spell out first through ninth.

Use numerals for 10th and above.

Spell out any number that begins a sentence.

Ages and School Grades

Use numerals to express ages and grade levels in school. Do not use a space on either side of the hyphen (not a dash) when indicating an age or grade spread. (UE style)

e.g., The children were ages 5-15. They attended a K-12 school.

Centuries

AP style offers two recommendations based on number value: (1) single-digit centuries should be written as lowercased words and (2) double-digit centuries should be written as numerals:

e.g., fifth century

the 18th century poet

21st Century Scholars

Currency

When it is appropriate to spell out an amount of money, do so for both the number and the currency.

e.g., The class has a materials fee of five dollars.

If even dollar amounts only are used, do not include .00 with the numeral figures. If one figure requires the use of cents numbers, consistently apply to all.

e.g., In addition to the $300 activity fee, you will be assessed a $30 health fee.

Your residence hall fee is $2,750.50 and your meal plan costs $2,500.00.

Large amounts may be expressed as a mixture of numerals and words.

e.g., Lilly awarded UE $15 million to enhance its academic programs.

Dates

Use cardinal, not ordinal, numbers for dates.

RIGHT: May 2; June 20, 2005

WRONG: May 2nd; May 2nd; June 20th, 2005

Use a space on both sides of a hyphen (not a dash) when indicating a spread of dates. (UE style)

e.g., June 23 - 28

Use Fall 2010 instead of in the fall of 2009 when referring to specific semesters (UE style)

Academic years are referenced with six digits except when appropriate in a headline or cover page. Use a hyphen with no spaces.

e.g., 2009-10 (usual);

2009-2010 (for covers or as headlines)

Fractions

Spell out amounts less than one in text, using hyphens between the words. Use numerals for precise amounts greater than one.

e.g., More than two-thirds of the citizens voted for him.

The image is 3½ inches wide. Whenever possible, use case (also called split or piece) fractions. When this is not possible, use the following style: 8-3/5 for eight and three-fifths.

Numerals

Use numerals for dates and measurements.

e.g., On December 4 the table measured 43" tall.

Use numerals for ages, credit hours, fees, and page numbers.

e.g., I have a 2-year-old son.

See page 4 for an explanation.

The class is worth 3 credits.

A student activity fee of $130 will be assessed.

Use numerals when a series of numbers is mentioned.

e.g., Music was taught in grades 6, 7, and 8.

The students' ages range from 5 to 12.

Telephone Numbers

Always type telephone numbers with the area code, no parentheses: 812-488-2143. Do not allow a telephone number to break onto two lines.

Abbreviate the word extension and set it off with commas.

e.g., Dial 812-423-8633, ext. 2468, for information.

Time

Time should be given in hours and minutes, with a.m. or p.m. in lower case.

e.g., 7:00 p.m.; 8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Use a word space on both sides of a hyphen (not a dash) when indicating a span of time. (UE style)

e.g., 10:00 - 11:30 a.m.

Do not use numerals to express noon or midnight (12:00 p.m.). Rather, spell out noon and midnight.

e.g., Luncheon: 11:00 a.m. - noon

Telephone Numbers

Always print telephone numbers with the area code; do not use parentheses.

e.g., 812-488-2143

Do not break a telephone number onto two lines.

For extensions, abbreviate ext. and set it off with commas. e.g., Dial 812-488-8573, ext. 2468, for information. Toll-free telephone numbers: Printing these numbers is restricted. The Offices of Study Abroad and Student Financial Services must approve use of their respective numbers. For the general toll-free number, the publications editor has been given guidelines for limited use. Any use beyond these guidelines requires approval by the vice president of fiscal affairs and administration.

800-423-8633 (general)

800-424-8634 (Student Financial Services)

The

Do not italicize or capitalize the word the as part of the name of a school or company or as part of the name of a newspaper or magazine when in text. This rule applies even if the appears on the masthead of the publication or in the school or corporate logo.

e.g., He studied at the University of Chicago.

She reads the Crescent regularly.

UE makes one exception to the above rule: The United Methodist Church

Time

Time should be given in hours and minutes, with a.m. or p.m. in lower case.

e.g., 7:00 p.m.; 8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Use a word space on both sides of a hyphen (not a dash) when indicating a span of time. (UE style)

e.g., 10:00 - 11:30 a.m.

Do not use numerals to express noon or midnight. Rather, spell out noon and midnight.

e.g., Luncheon: 11:00 a.m. - noon

Titles

Italicize the following publication titles: albums, works of art, books, collections, drawings, electronic file names, magazines, movies, newspapers, paintings, pamphlets, periodicals, plays, long poems, poetry collections, proceedings, statues, television and radio series

When a year is indicated, print all four digits of the number representing that year.

e.g., 1999 or 2005

When a span of years is written, remove the first two digits of the second year.

e.g., 2010-11

When used after a name to refer to the graduation year of a UE alumnus, use an apostrophe followed by the last two digits of the year.

e.g., John Doe '04

When used to refer to an alumnus who has not graduated (and is no longer enrolled), use an apostrophe followed by the last two digits of the last year of attendance and a lower case x.

e.g., John Doe '71x

University of Evansville Music Conservatory

Recital Program Guidelines

Titles of Compositions

Generic titles, such as symphony, concerto, and sonata, are in Roman type and are capitalized. Do not use boldface, italics, or quotation marks.

Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor Symphony No. 1 in C Major

Generic titles of Latin liturgical works are capitalized and in roman type.

Mass
Requiem

Distinctive titles of other complete entities, such as an opera or other large work, are in italics and in the original language. Do not use anglicized versions of titles (except when works are performed in English).

Rigoletto
Symphonie fantastique
Porgy and Bess
Le nozze di Figaro rather than The Marriage of Figaro
Eine Alpensinfonie rather than An Alpine Symphony

Popular titles or subtitles, if used, follow the formal title and appear in quotation marks within parentheses.

Symphony No. 41 in C Major ("Jupiter")
Piano Concerto No. 5 in E-flat Major ("Emperor")

When the words "major" or "minor" are part of a title, both are capitalized.

Sonata in A Major
Sonata in A Minor

In titles that include a key with sharps and flats, the words "sharp" and "flat" should be written out in lower case and preceded by a hyphen.

Sonata in F-sharp Major Concerto in E-flat Minor

When opus and number are part of a title, they are abbreviated and capitalized.

String Quarter in F Major, Op. 18, No. 1

Thematic catalog citations appear in the titles of some works, most commonly those of Bach, Mozart, and Schubert. These should comprise a capital letter followed by a period, a space, and a number. (An exception is BWV, which is abbreviated without periods.)

BWV signifies Schmieder's Bach catalog.
Bach: Tocatta and Fugue in D Minor, BWV 565

K or KV signifies Köchel's Mozart catalog
Mozart: Fantasy in C Minor, K. 475 (or KV. 475)

D signifies Deutsch's Schubert catalog.
Schubert: Mass No. 6 in E-flat Major, D. 950

If the work does not have an opus or catalog number, the date of the composition's completion or first performance should be included in parentheses after the title, if available.

Piano Concerto (1945)
Music of Changes (1951)

Listed movements in a foreign language are italicized.

Movements in English are not.

Sonata in G Major
Allegro
Adagio
Allegro
Afro-American Symphony
Longings
Sorrrows
Humor
Aspirations

Individual song titles are not italicized and do not need quotation marks. The title of a song collection or cycle is italicized if it is in a foreign language, but individual songs are not.

Après un Rêve
Ariettes oubliées
C'est l'Extase
Il Pleure dan Mon Coeur

Arias are not italicized but are enclosed in quotation marks, whether in a foreign language or not, and are followed by "from" and the title of the opera or oratorio in italics.

"Where'er You Walk" from Semele
"Non so più" from Le nozze di Figaro

Composter Names

Use transliterated, Americanized names for composers.

Transliteration from Cyrillic script is problematic, resulting in multiple accepted name spellings for some composers. The preferred spellings for some include Sergey Prokofiev, Serge Rachmaninoff, Igor Stravinsky, and Pyotr Il'yich Tchaikovsky. When in doubt, consult Grove Music Online.

Schoenberg is the preferred spelling for the twentieth-century Austrian composer; do not use the umlaut (ö).

Regarding possessives (if necessary), use an apostrophe and an s for all composers' names, even those ending in "s" and "z."
e.g., Berlioz's; Brahms's; Boulez's

Capitalization

Capitalization for titles in various languages is as follows:

English: Capitalize all words except conjunctions, prepositions, and articles (a, an, the) and capitalize those exceptions if they are the first words in the title.

A Quiet Place

Peter and the Wolf

French: Capitalize words through the first noun.

La Bonne Chanson

L'Enfant prodigue

Rapsodie espagnole

German: Capitalize the first word and all subsequent nouns.

"Meine Liebe ist grun"

Italian and Spanish: Capitalize the first word and proper names of people and places.

Così fan tutte

Il barbiere di Siviglia

La vida breve

La casa de Bernardo Alba

Latin: Capitalize all words but conjunctions and prepositions, as in English.

Vesperae Solennae de Confessor

In Dulci Jubilo
