In Grateful Recognition

The Next Step is a free resource to you thanks to the employers listed in the back of this book. They are interested in University of Evansville students as potential employees, and many of them will visit our campus for career fairs and recruitment during 2023-24. Learn more about opportunities with them by visiting the Center for Career Development's website.

It is with sincere thanks that the University of Evansville Center for Career Development acknowledges the active support, encouragement, and resources of the following. Without their help, this publication would not be possible: Mercer University Career Services, University of Illinois Career Center, University of Missouri-Columbia Career Center, UNC-Greensboro, Indiana University, Ball State University, University of Notre Dame, Monster.com, George Washington University, NACEweb, Georgia Institute of Technology, and Princeton University.

Greetings and welcome to an exciting academic year full of promise and results. The faculty and staff at the University of Evansville are committed to facilitating your transformative learning experience, ensuring your smooth transition into the realms of professional employment and advanced graduate education. Our alumni are living examples of our mission to empower students to think critically, act bravely, serve responsibly, and live meaningfully in a changing world. Indeed, our alumni are CEOs of global corporations, prominent researchers, innovative entrepreneurs, educators, and so much more. It all begins with a well-planned and successful career development program that is designed for you - our UE students and alumni.

The future job market for college graduates promises a dynamic landscape, shaped by rapid technological advancements and evolving industry demands. Employers will continue to seek candidates who possess a diverse range of skills that extend beyond traditional academic achievements. Through innovative programs, personalized guidance, and experiential learning opportunities, the University of Evansville ensures that graduates are not only well-prepared academically, but also possess the career competencies necessary to be successful in a professional environment. Students and alumni who have benefited from the University's comprehensive approach to career development will be at the forefront, securing employment, thriving, and advancing in their careers. This 19th edition of the Next Step: A Guide to Career Development provides you with valuable information about how to successfully navigate your career choices. This guide, along with the staff in the Center for Career Development and your faculty, are available to support you in the development of your career plan.

In 2022, 98 percent of our graduates were employed or pursuing further education within six months of graduation, demonstrating that a UE education makes a difference to employers and graduate schools. You have a short amount of time at UE to embrace everything available to you – your career search plan is your roadmap to the future. Our team will help you identify the best path as you consider participating in experiential education, planning study abroad programs, partnering with the Center for Innovation and Change, or engaging in discipline-driven research, all of which prepare you for a successful career.

It is never too early to start taking proactive steps towards a promising and successful future, and we feel privileged that the University of Evansville holds a substantial role in equipping you for the brilliance that lies ahead.

With my best,

First Year

- Develop relationships with faculty members and advisors by:
  1. Identifying your interests, abilities, skills, and values.
  2. Developing short- and long-term academic and career goals.
- Decide not to decide about an academic major and participate in the Major Discovery Program. evansville.edu/majors/undeclared
- Take the TruTalent Personality assessment through our office.
- Research interesting occupations and majors through online resources, career development resources, and talking to faculty members and professionals. A list of online resources is on the back cover of this guide and on our website at evansville.edu/careercenter.
- Conduct an informational interview with a professional to learn more about their career path and position.
- Consider study abroad options. Make your academic advisor aware so they may better advise you during course registration.
- Explore ChangeLab courses.
- Attend career development outreach program workshops and forums, including career fairs.
- Sign up for the ACE Pathway to begin building your professional image. Schedule an appointment with the Center for Career Development for a 15 minute overview.
- Get involved! Explore student organizations, clubs, and departmental groups on campus.
- If you have already declared a major, look for opportunities to gain more experience in your field of interest (e.g., student organizations, part-time jobs, internships, co-op positions, volunteer activities).
- Create a résumé of your current and previous experiences. Upload it to Handshake.
- Review information on iBace, a certificate program designed to give all majors business experience. Additional information on iBace can be found at evansville.edu/iBace.
- Start building your all-important online professional image. Learn about the business networking site, LinkedIn, and create your account at linkedin.com.

Second Year

- Continue exploring careers related to your area of interest.
- Register for Experiential Education 090: Building Your Professional Image, a seven-week intensive guide to prepare you for professional document development, job search skills, and interviewing techniques.
- Update and manage your LinkedIn account. Make sure it is 100 percent complete and join the UE Careers group.
- Find us on Facebook at facebook.com/UECareerCenter, follow us on Twitter @UECareers, LinkedIn at UE Center for Career Development, and Instagram at @UEcareers.
- Discuss your career and educational plans with the Center, academic advisors, faculty members, and your own personal network of family and friends.
- Update your résumé with current information and be sure to upload it to Handshake.
- Consider gaining valuable life experiences through studying abroad. Speak with the Office of Study Abroad and your academic advisor to implement a plan.
- Become involved in experiential learning opportunities through internships, co-op positions, and service learning. To learn more, contact the Center for Career Development and your academic advisor.
- Take advantage of career workshops and forums through the career development outreach program.
- After earning 60 credit hours at UE, you are strongly advised to declare a major field of study in order to make satisfactory academic progress.

Third Year

- Construct a timeline and action plan concerning your post-graduation plans.
- Identify post-graduation options: graduate school, year-of-service programs, professional school, or full-time employment.
- Revisit your career interests, values, skills, and abilities. How have they changed?
- Be a leader! Increase your participation in student organizations and clubs by serving in a leadership capacity.
- Attend career workshops, seminars, job fairs, and graduate school activities.
- Establish a network of professionals in the business world or with graduate schools and maintain communication.
- Take graduate or professional school examinations.
- Gain real-life experience through internships, co-op positions, part-time jobs, volunteer activities, research, conference presentations, and class projects.
- Make an appointment with the Center for Career Development for further career and higher education assistance.
- Consider applying for post-graduate scholarships and fellowships. Visit evansville.edu/careercenter for more information.
- Refine your portfolio items and plan for future projects; practice presenting your portfolio and using its contents to answer interview questions.
- Degree candidates must file an application for the degree with the Office of the Registrar one year prior to the intended date of graduation.

Fourth Year and Beyond

- Sign up for UE Connect to build a relationship with a professional in your related field, location, major, etc. Visit evansville.edu/alumni/ueconnect.cfm.
- Narrow your career choices by prioritizing your interests, values, skills, and abilities.
- Make an appointment with your academic advisor early in the academic year to ensure that you are on track for graduation.
- Gain additional experience that strengthens your qualifications.
- If you're planning to attend a graduate or professional school, complete your applications three to four weeks prior to the school deadlines.
- Visit graduate schools and increase communication with your potential department to ensure that the program fits your needs.
- Revise and strengthen your résumé with help from the career development staff. Upload the revised version to Handshake.
- Schedule a mock interview appointment with the Center for Career Development office.
- Make sure your Handshake contact information and profile is up-to-date.
- See Career Development for individualized assistance (such as developing an action plan for employment or mapping out graduate or professional schools) in planning your career path.
- Put the finishing touches on your portfolio. Be sure to include fourth year and beyond projects, research, etc.
- Use your LinkedIn account to its fullest by networking with others who may assist you in reaching your career goals. Keep it updated and have fresh references that reflect the most current experiences.

Handshake

is a one-stop shop for students to prepare and launch their careers. Through a free Handshake account, students and alumni can search and apply for opportunities, upload résumés, research employers, learn about other career events, and schedule an on-campus interview.

Why Use Handshake?

Get connected, discovered, and hired all in one place!

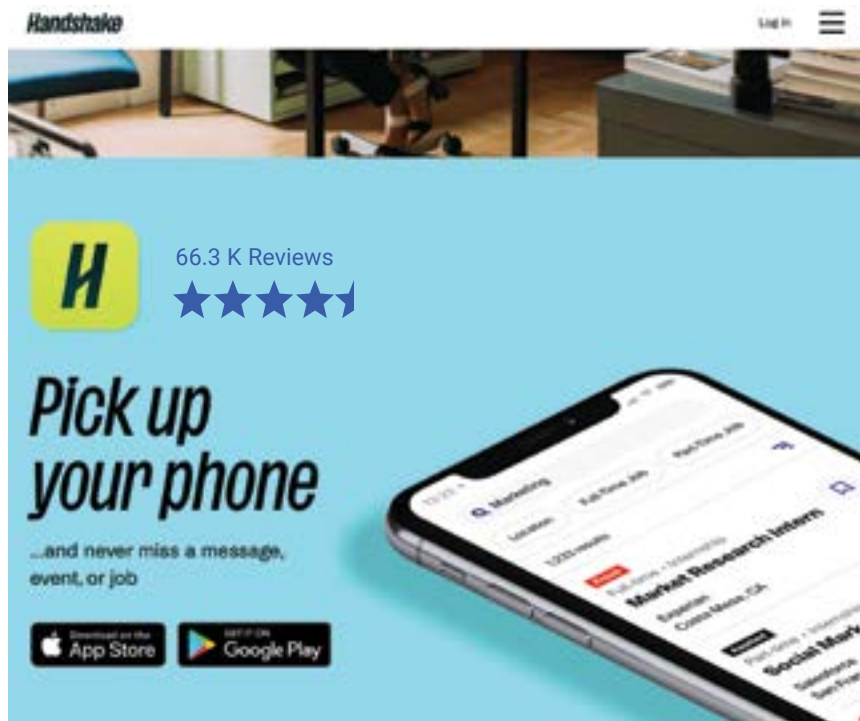

- Search and apply for internships and jobs.
- Research prospective employers.
- Leverage an engaged community of peers, alumni, and employers.
- Find the best places to work according to classmates.
- RSVP for career fairs, networking events, and other recruiting activities.
- Add your résumé, cover letter, transcript, etc. for convenient access by employers.
- Schedule your appointments with the Center for Career Development.

Profile Checklist

- Activate your account by visiting evansville.joinhandshake.com.
- Set your privacy – determine what access level works best for your needs.
  - Private: You'll be able to apply for jobs, but employers won't be able to search proactively for you.
  - Employers: Your profile will be visible to employers. You may receive messages about potential job opportunities directly from employers.
  - Community: Your profile will be visible to employers, students, and alumni across all Handshake colleges and universities. You will be able to message students and alumni who have similar interests or experiences.

Complete Your Profile

- Create and upload a default résumé – make it public for employers to see.
- Add a professional picture and a bio.
- Complete the "Your Interests" section for better job recommendations. Employers find students based on the job interests in their Handshake profiles.
- Select as many skills as apply to you.
- Add your current and past work experience (internships, part-time jobs, ChangeLab, research, etc.).
- Add any clubs, organizations, campus involvement, or community service.
- Consider adding interesting courses or projects.

ACE Pathway and ACE Certificate

Sign up for the Advanced Career Education (ACE) Pathway today to ensure you are successfully prepared with the most effective tools to help you launch in today’s competitive and aggressive marketplace upon graduation.

The ACE Pathway is the Center for Career Development’s rigorous, professional development curriculum centered around career readiness. It is designed to offer you the opportunity to gain skills needed to communicate your professionalism, accomplishments, and career focus to potential employers or graduate schools.

By participating in the ACE Pathway, you will evaluate your career goals, polish your professional image, and create the building blocks of a lifelong professional network. This voluntary, self-guided, Blackboard course can be completed at any point during your four+ years on campus, and covers topics such as:

- Personality and career assessment
- Résumé, cover letter, and interviewing skills
- Networking and professional image development
- An experiential learning component such as an internship, co-op or research experience in your field

You may sign up for the ACE Pathway at any time; however, it is ideal to begin this program in your first or second year to ensure you have the necessary preparations completed prior to entering an internship or other experiential learning.

This zero-credit course will remain open until every element is complete or until graduation. If you complete all items, you will be awarded the ACE Certificate, including a professional UE portfolio!

To sign up, email: career@evansville.edu

Once registered, you will have access to the preparation materials for the career elements, including rubrics, templates, video tutorials, and more.

The University of Evansville’s professional development certificate is another decidedly tangible step in delivering exceptional value to UE students. Make the important decision to take charge of your professional image and begin your ACE Pathway today.

Competencies for a Career-Ready Workforce

Career and Self Development

Proactively develop oneself and one's career through continual personal and professional learning, awareness of one's strengths and weaknesses, navigation of career opportunities, and networking to build relationships within and without one's organization.

Communication

Clearly and effectively exchange information, ideas, facts, and perspectives with others inside and outside of an organization.

Critical Thinking

Identify and respond to needs based upon an understanding of situational context and logical analysis of relevant information.

Equity and Inclusion

Demonstrate the awareness, attitude, knowledge, and skills required to equitably engage and include people from different local and global cultures. Engage in anti-racist practices that actively challenge the systems, structures, and policies of racism.

Leadership

Recognize and capitalize on personal and team strengths to achieve organizational goals.

Professionalism

Knowing work environments differ greatly, understand and demonstrate effective work habits, and act in the interest of the larger community and workplace.

Teamwork

Build and maintain collaborative relationships to work effectively toward common goals, while appreciating diverse viewpoints and shared responsibilities.

Technology

Understand and leverage technologies ethically to enhance efficiencies, complete tasks, and accomplish goals.

What is Career Readiness?

Career readiness is a foundation from which to demonstrate requisite core competencies that broadly prepare the college educated for success in the workplace and lifelong career management.

Finding the Right Career Path for the Person You Are

The TruTalent Personality career interest assessment will help you explore your options, make informed decisions, and encourage the pursuit of your dream career. If you are struggling with any of the following issues or questions, you would benefit from completing the assessment. Please select the following that apply.

- I like my major, but I do not know what kind of a career I could pursue.
- I am unsure if there are particular majors or minors better suited to my possible career directions.
- I am considering a few majors and minors but cannot decide which one(s) best fit my interests and talents.
- I am interested in learning about the types of academic and work environments in which I would be most successful.
- I want to identify personal strengths that relate to my major, my academic success, and the career decision-making process.

Upon completion of the assessment tool, we will work with you to plan your next steps. Talking to faculty and staff members about potential majors, minors, and study abroad options could lead to your participation in experiential education. Attending a career fair or networking event allows you to gain a few of the skills necessary for career success. Finally, making connections on LinkedIn is a great way to stay up to date with news from your field and beyond, enhance your professional reputation, and increase your personal visibility.

What Can I Do with This Major?

Have you ever asked yourself “What can I do with this major?” Well, you are not alone. The Center for Career Development has a convenient website resource to help you find answers to that question. Simply go to evansville.edu/careercenter and click on “Students/ Alumni” and then “Major & Career Exploration.” You will then have access to information about common career areas, typical employers, and strategies designed to maximize career opportunities for more than 50 majors.

Major Discovery Program

Through the Major Discovery Program, you will have resources and expert help as you choose your academic path at the University of Evansville. A class designed for undeclared majors – DISC 100: Student Success Strategies – provides a structured academic approach to discovering options for majors and careers. Learn more at evansville.edu/majors/undeclared.

Explore and Research

The career exploration process really begins during your first and second year of college. The first step, self-exploration, is very important and should not be rushed through or overlooked. We understand that there are minority groups who may have other challenges to consider when looking for a major or career path. The Center for Career Development is always here to assist. Organizations such as the Human Rights Campaign also provide helpful information and resources at hrc.org.

Interested in completing the TruTalent Personality?

Please visit evansville.joinhandshake.com and select the “TruTalent Personality” option to schedule your appointment.

What is a Résumé?

- An intentional sales and marketing document – its purpose is to help you obtain a job interview
- A succinct and brief description targeted to a specific career field and addressed to the needs of a specific employer
- An effective summary of your relevant skills, knowledge, and accomplishments

It is possible that you may have to develop several versions of your résumé for an effective, targeted job search.

Good résumés may be presented in the following formats:

- Chronological (good format for traditional college students with an average amount of experience and related activities)
- Functional (most helpful for those changing careers, nontraditional age students, and those with gaps in their employment history)
- Combination of chronological and functional

A résumé should not be:

- Prepared by a stranger
- Copied from another source
- Hurriedly developed in a generic word processing template or wizard function

Step-by-step: creating the first draft

1. Meet with a career advocate. Visit evansville.edu/careercenter/students/careeradvocates.cfm.
2. Brainstorm what you will put on your résumé. Use the worksheet on page 14 as a guide.
3. Determine how these experiences will fit into categories and subcategories (see list on following page for examples).
4. Begin talking about your experiences in terms of the value that you added to the organization or your own skill set. Remember to begin all statements with a past tense action verb. Choosing the right words and phrases is critical for selling your marketable skills and experiences.
5. Work and rework all sections of your résumé.

Summary and qualifications

This section of your résumé should be the last section you create. In it, you will highlight the skills and qualities that you have described in your résumé so that the information is tied together for an employer. This is also a great section to draw parallels between what an employer is looking for in a candidate (find this in the job posting) with the skills that you already possess.

What Sections Should Be in a Résumé?

A résumé generally includes the following broad sections:

Contact Section                      Who are you? Where and how can you be reached?

Individuals may use their chosen name by writing their first legal initial, their chosen name, and then their last name. "K. Alex Jones," for example.

There will be times a company requests your legal name; if this is the case, you must use your legal name as it may be used for a background check or other legal proceedings.

Objective Statement	What do you want to do? (Be brief - five to 12 words with no personal pronouns)
Summary Section	What skills and qualities do you have?
Education Section	What have you learned? What degrees, training, and certifications have you earned? Have you studied abroad? Have you completed any major projects?
Employment Section	What have you done? Describe your internships, co-op jobs, work, leadership, and volunteerism; use past-tense action verbs.

Categories and subcategories may include:

Computer skills	Study abroad	Activities	Training
Qualifications summary	Technical skills	Achievements	Available references
Certifications	Education/degrees	Laboratory skills	Professional development
Honors	Cooperative education	Accomplishments	Affiliations
Leadership	Courses	Internship experience	Social innovation
Projects	Professional experience	Scholarships	Consulting
Community service	Skills	Languages
Publications	Presentations	Volunteer activities

Tips for Résumé Development

The type of résumé and categories you choose are determined by educational status (e.g., traditional student, nontraditional student, alumnus) or other factors (e.g., gaps in employment, length of employment, change of career or experience). Consider the following:

Did you know?
Employers prefer a conservative résumé format. Make yours unique by focusing on your specific accomplishments and skills.

- Categories should reflect what is most important to the employer or industry. Start with what best demonstrates your experience and your career objective.
- One-page résumés are preferred by virtually all employers for most entry-level positions. But there are exceptions to every rule; for example, education and nonprofit fields tolerate a two-page résumé format.
- A good rule of thumb is to have one page for every six to 10 years of professional work experience.
- When preparing a two-page résumé, make sure the most marketable and critical information is on the first page. If your résumé is two pages, they must both be full pages.
- Be sure to use terminology that is employer-, industry-, or job-specific.
- Well-organized résumés are visually appealing and do not contain spelling, typographical, grammatical, or punctuation errors.
- Every good résumé is concise and well organized so the most important information is first. Remember, the content should reinforce your objective.
- Begin each statement or phrase with a powerful action verb. Statements are best used in a bullet-style format and should be less than three lines. Eliminate unnecessary words. Use the most aggressive past-tense action verb possible.
- Your most recent information should come first – most recent education, employment, and leadership.
- Use a readable and familiar font (e.g., Times New Roman, Arial, Helvetica, Century Schoolbook). The type size should be uniform and fall in the range of 10.5-12 point (except for your name).
- When employers review résumés, they spend very little time on each, usually only 20 to 30 seconds. Make sure that your résumé is readable.
- Résumés should be printed on high quality (16-25 lb.) bond paper; white, off-white, or ivory preferred. Avoid colors and textures that do not photocopy well, such as gray or marble.

Résumé Tips
Content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• List your GPA if 3.0 or better</li> <li>• Statements should indicate your skill set or how you added value to the organization</li> <li>• No high school information (few exceptions)</li> <li>• No personal pronouns</li> <li>• Honors and non-leadership activities in list format</li> <li>• Always use past-tense (even for current positions)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Use terminology from your field</li> <li>• Begin statements with a powerful action verb (see page 15)</li> <li>• You must be ready to talk about everything on your résumé; if you cannot, do not list it</li> </ul> Format <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Margins – .7" all around, possible .5" top/bottom</li> <li>• Use the ruler bar to set your own tabs – do not use the space bar</li> <li>• Do not use tables</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Name in 16-20 point; all other text uniform size, preferably 11 or 12 point</li> <li>• Make information uniform and aligned</li> <li>• Keep bullets and special characters simple; do not use too many</li> <li>• Use all caps, bold, and italics sparingly; avoid underlining</li> <li>• Limit punctuation</li> <li>• Use a common font, such as Times New Roman or Arial</li> </ul>

Applicant Tracking Systems

Many corporations, across all industries, use scanners and software, know as Applicant Tracking Systems (ATS), to complete the initial screening of résumés. If a résumé does not meet a specific threshold, it may not get through the system and into the hands of a human recruiter. Be sure to carefully review the job description and specifically tailor your résumé for that position.

Writing a Curriculum Vitae (CV)

A curriculum vitae (Latin for “the course of one’s life”), is a comprehensive statement of your educational background, teaching and research experience, and other academic qualifications and activities. In academic circles, the CV is the foundation of any application for employment, funding, awards, fellowships, or grants. A CV can serve other purposes as well, such as providing the basis for an annual review by your employer or for introductions at conference presentations. Many search committees will look at the CVs of job candidates before anything else in screening applications. It is therefore extremely important that your CV effectively communicate the range and scope of your qualifications while highlighting your particular teaching and research strengths. Because CV styles and norms vary from one discipline to another, you should have your CV reviewed by faculty in your department/field before sending it out!

General Tips on Form and Style

Even though content determines the length of your CV, you should aim for a tightly constructed, succinct, and efficient presentation of your credentials. There is no excuse for typographical errors in your CV. Proofread and ask others to proofread for you. Careless errors send a bad message.

- Your name and the page number should be in a header or footer on each page after the first. Because maintaining a CV is iterative, you should get in the practice of updating it at least every six months to a year. Many scholars include a “revised” date in a footer on the first page.
- Use an 11- or 12-point font size with 1” inch margins.

- Use past-tense action verbs, measured descriptions, parallel grammar, no first-person pronouns, and little punctuation.
- Be careful not to pluralize section headings that cover one entry only.
- Keep dates to the right as opposed to listing them first in your sections. The reader’s eye naturally gravitates to the left—you want your biggest selling points there (e.g. your pedigree/school, your job title, etc.).
- Use boldface, italics, all caps, and spacing to highlight information, but be consistent and sparing in your use. Overuse distracts readers and defeats your purpose.
- Do not use graphics, shading, colors, or underlining; if you use lines, put at least .25” inch of white space around them. Lines are not recommended.
- Cite electronic references to articles, portfolios, courses, etc., to show your technical savvy if you created the site. Personal web pages should be referenced only if all material presented is professional. Irrelevant text (e.g. vacation photos, personal narratives, etc.) may turn off some members of your audience.
- All CVs should be laser-printed in black ink on white or light-colored, 8 ½” x 11” bond paper, 25 percent cotton fiber, minimum 20 lb, not to exceed 30 lb.

Note: It has become more common to see headshot photographs on CVs, particularly in the natural sciences. Think about what information this text communicates and be aware that some search committees may cover up the photo in adherence to anti-discriminatory policies. Photos are NOT recommended; put a photo in a LinkedIn account.

Cover Emails

- When responding to a job opportunity via the Internet, the cover email follows the same format as described above with one exception. In the subject line of the email, put the exact position title and reference number, if applicable, for which you are applying.
- Start your message with the salutation (there is no need to type dates and addresses) and an introductory paragraph.
- Use the information described in your second and third paragraphs above and close with a variation of your fourth paragraph.

1. Type each letter individually. Keep in mind the specific job you are applying for. The letter should be no longer than one page and follow proper business letter format. Use paper similar to that used for your résumé.
2. Research the company. Show that you know something about that particular organization. Indicating that you have researched the organization shows that you are interested in the employer.
3. Write to a specific person. Find the name of a specific person within the organization, preferably the one who is likely to make employment decisions. Be sure to correctly spell the individual's name and include their job title. Use gender neutral language and address the letter with the person's first and last name. Avoid generic "Dear Sir/Madam" or "To whom it may concern" letters.
4. Focus on the employer's point of view. Convey your experience and skills in ways that relate to the employer's position, work, or field. Address the company's needs, concerns, and priorities.
5. Focus on solutions. Whenever applicable, present your problem-solving abilities within your cover letter. Employers do not want to read about all the difficulties that you have faced in your education or past careers, but rather how you overcame those difficulties and what you learned from those experiences.
6. Be persuasive. Cover letters are persuasive rather than descriptive documents. Therefore, emphasize specific qualifications that are related to the job or employer.
7. Select one or two attributes. Highlight one or two of your most significant accomplishments or abilities to show that you are an above-average candidate. Selecting only one or two special attributes improves your chances of being remembered.
8. Make every word count. Use clear, crisp, and succinct language.
9. Use action verbs. Describe your previous experience and background with dynamic action verbs. By using the active voice and strong action verbs in your writing, you hold the reader's attention and convey a sense of energy.
10. Avoid a familiar tone. Avoid a familiar tone. Be sure not to start sentences with "I" or "My" until your last paragraph. This letter is a business correspondence, not a conversation piece.
11. Be specific. Rather than being "generally qualified," use specific examples to demonstrate your qualifications.
12. Use your own words. Show yourself as being human, real, professional, and employable. Your individuality should be reflected in your cover letter. Be enthusiastic, conversational, and friendly.
13. Proofread and spell-check your work carefully. Your letter should be free of spelling or grammatical errors. These errors detract from your intended message and communicate that you are sloppy or unprofessional.
14. Demonstrate sincerity, energy, and enthusiasm. The cover letter is your opportunity to showcase your interest in the job and the company that you are applying to. Even though your letter is first and foremost a business correspondence, it is still extremely important that you show the employer your excitement and desire to work for their company.
15. Be honest.

Sarah Healthwell
Legislative Assistant
Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions
428 Senate Dirksen Office Building
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Sarah Healthwell:

After reviewing your Public Health Intern listing on the University of Evansville's Handshake website, I am enthusiastically submitting my résumé for your consideration. As a rising fourth-year student majoring in Public Health and minoring in medical Spanish, I am seeking a position to apply my professional pursuits in health and public policy and complete your full-time opportunity in Washington D.C. Thank you for the flexibility to complete this experience virtually, and I am considering both an in-person and remote option. The emphasis on healthcare policy for underserved communities melds my interests in Public Health and people whose first language is Spanish.

The University of Evansville has been a rich environment for my development as a health care professional. Two summers ago as a Second Year student I completed an internship in Chicago, where I worked at a free women's health clinic, translating information for primarily Spanish speaking patients and learning the administrative functions of a nonprofit health facility. The center saw all manner of patients, mostly women and children, many with little prior interaction with health-care professionals and clinics. The learning curve was steep; however, I developed a much deeper understanding of the needs of underserved and underrepresented populations and the necessity for comprehensive federal health policy change.

As well as being interested in women's health, I am also keen to help those with mental health conditions. Up to 50 percent of the women seen by the Chicago clinic presented with depressive and related mental health symptoms. The COVID-19 pandemic has put the spotlight on the need for mental health treatment in the United States, especially for children and adolescents. Some of my recent research papers have allowed me to examine more in-depth topics such as the Anti-Vaccination movement in America, employment advocacy for people with disabilities, the Affordable Care Act, and the mental health crisis. As I explore my future, I understand the need to apply my interests at the national level by serving the Senate Committee that helps determine funding and policy. This desire will serve me well as an intern with your committee.

Enclosed is my résumé for your review and I am eager to speak with you. I am available for an interview at your convenience and may be reached at XXX XXX XXXX or xxx133@evansville.edu. Thank you for considering my request and I look forward to hearing from you soon!

Sincerely,

Savvee H. Educator

Enclosure: Résumé

Thank-You Cards and Emails

As a professional courtesy, thank-you letters, handwritten thank-you cards, or thank-you emails should follow every interview 24 to 48 hours after the event. This will further distinguish you from other candidates. Keep in mind the goals of such correspondence:

- To express genuine appreciation for the employer’s time and consideration
- To reaffirm your interest in the position and to cite additional qualifications you may not have discussed thoroughly in the interview
- To clarify information that may not have been positively conveyed
- To confirm your understanding of the next step in the application process
- To include your expense statement and any other details of your visit

In some instances, thank-you cards or emails serve another purpose. Some employers fail to respond expeditiously to job candidates, and they need a nudge. A polite way to nudge the employer to act is to enclose an updated résumé or to comment about any new developments since the initial interview. Another approach is to say that another employer is pressing and a decision is necessary.

Acceptance Letters

While you will initially speak with the employer directly to accept a position, you will also want to send an acceptance letter as a follow-up. The acceptance letter should:

- Be addressed to the person who made you the offer.
- Be typed in a standard business letter format (see page 20, Formatting a Cover Letter).
- Include: appreciation for the offer, acceptance of the position, title of the position/department, and an overview of the hiring terms discussed (start date, who to report to on the first day, etc.).

Withdrawal and Rejection Letters

As part of managing your professional image, you are expected to communicate with employers regarding your candidacy. After you have accepted a position, you should:

- Send a formal business letter to the appropriate companies to withdraw your candidacy from any of the other positions for which you have applied.
- Prepare a courteous and thoughtful letter to decline employment offers that do not fit into your career goals.
- Thank the employer for their offer and consideration and that you hope to communicate with them again in the future regarding additional opportunities.

16 Tips for Using Email at Your New Job

1. Do not use your employer’s email address for anything other than work-related correspondence.
2. Read emails carefully so that you can respond appropriately.
3. Don’t send confidential material by email.
4. Use a subject line that reflects what your message is about.
5. Don’t use abbreviations or text message jargon (BTW, LOL, or smiley faces, and so forth) in your email.
6. Use a brief greeting as you might in a letter (Dear John). Include a closing (Sincerely, Yours, Thanks).
7. Use spell check and reread your message before sending.
8. Respond to email promptly.
9. Use typefaces and colors that are appropriate to your workplace. Ask if your office has a style that you should follow.
10. If you find you are emailing back and forth several times, pick up the phone to settle the issue.
11. If you forward a message, remove the FW from the subject line.
12. Change the subject line if the topic of the email changes.
13. Do not share other people’s email addresses.
14. Be careful using “reply all.” Consider whether it is necessary that everyone sees your reply.
15. Do not forward other people’s messages without permission.
16. Watch the tone of your email. Remember, the person receiving the email can’t see your body language.

Employers and graduate schools considering your candidacy often require you to provide a list of references and reference letters. Employers may request a reference list at your initial application, and before or after your interview. Normally references will not be contacted until you are a finalist for a position. Graduate schools often request reference letters as part of the application process.

Give careful consideration of whom you ask to serve as your reference. References verify your experience, confirm your competence, build credibility, and increase the employer's confidence that your skills, abilities, past job and school performance, and accomplishments make you a good fit for the position.

Identifying Your References

- References may include the following people: faculty and academic advisors, professors, bosses, supervisors, and coworkers.
- Create a list of six to 10 possible references who know you as a professional. As a college student or recent alumnus, at least one reference should be a professor or faculty member.
- Choose wisely. Do not include individuals who have minimal knowledge of your professional capabilities.
- Do not settle. If the person seems hesitant to serve as your reference, ask someone else.

Requesting a Reference

- Select three to four professional references for each employment position or graduate school application. Having a list of potential references allows you to pick and choose from the list.
- Personally contact each person and ask if they will serve as your reference. Do not send an email or leave a voicemail message.
- Schedule an appointment with each individual to discuss the types of positions you are interested in applying for and how you see your skills, experience, abilities, and qualifications fitting in with those positions.
- Ask early. Do not wait until the last minute or your last year of college. Build your recommendation portfolio by asking your employer or supervisor to write you a letter whenever you leave or complete your job if you left on good terms. If you did really well in a course you took during your Second Year year, do not be afraid to ask your professor to write you a reference letter at the end of the semester.

Providing Your References With Information

- Provide your references with your current résumé, a summary of goals and plans, and any other document (e.g., transcript) you feel is necessary for them to provide an employer with thorough and positive information.
- Notify your references when you have included them on a job application.
- If your reference is writing a letter of recommendation, you should provide them with stamped, addressed envelopes. Include a cover sheet with a list of the graduate schools or employers for which you are requesting letters.

How to cite a reference

aj000@evansville.edu

Use the same header, font, and point size for the reference page that you used on your résumé.

Thanking Your References

- Send a thank-you card to your reference after you know the letter has been sent out or they have spoken with the organization.
- You may also consider recontacting your references to apprise them of your situation. Continue to cultivate relationships with your network even after you have secured employment or graduate school admission.

Comments from the 2023 UE Student Experiential Education Survey

Benefits of Internships, Co-ops, and Related Experiences

In the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) Job Outlook 2023 survey, employers stated that experience is a significant screening factor for potential employees. Data showed that 57.6 percent of eligible interns converted to full-time employment. As of January, nearly 85 percent of responding employers indicated internships are the top recruiting method for their investment of time and money, far ahead of career fairs

(nine percent), on-campus visits (three percent), and participating in campus panels (three percent). The findings highlight that experience in the industry, participating in an internship, and demonstrating proficiency in career readiness competencies are critical screening filters. Increasingly, employers are looking for students who possess and demonstrate experiences and competencies. When asked to rank the eight career readiness competencies in terms of importance, 28 percent of respondents gave critical thinking the top ranking, while nearly 27 percent ranked communication most important.

Benefits to Consider When Completing Your Experience

- Employment
Students with internship experience stand out from the crowd in the job hunt.
- Take charge of your learning
Internships are opportunities for you to design your own curriculum and expand upon the campus-based curriculum.
- Theory into practice
Apply theories learned in class to real-life situations.
- Awareness through increased community involvement
Develop a greater understanding of your role and potential contributions to society.
- Personal growth
Solving problems in unfamiliar situations can bolster your self-confidence and show you where you need improvement.
- Helping hand
Helping others increase their own capacities is also a benefit and goal of an internship.
- New environment
Introduce yourself to a new environment and the challenges of a work setting.
- Research
Explore new and old academic and career interests.

Identifying and Developing Your Plan

1. Set up a meeting with your academic advisor to discuss curriculum-specific requirements and to identify other individuals who may help you achieve your goal.
2. Schedule an appointment with the Career Development staff and register with Handshake.
3. Create a résumé and cover letter.
4. Enroll in Experiential Education 90 – Building a Professional Image. All students considering an internship or co-op position are strongly encouraged to take this course. Some programs require that their students complete this course before being eligible to earn credit. See the career development staff for more information.
5. Review internship descriptions and think about the kind of internship you want to have. Virtually all academic departments offer credit for experiential education opportunities.
6. Consider your academic, student organization, leadership, and athletic schedules. When would you be able to devote 10 or more hours per week to an internship?
7. Apply for the experiential education stipend through the Center for Career Development.

Implementing Your Plan

Please see “How to Conduct an Effective Job Search” on page 37 for more information on this process.

Making the Most of Your Experience at UE

A “Changemaker” is someone who desires positive change in the world and makes that change happen. The University of Evansville is considered a global leader among colleges and universities that believe everyone can make a powerful difference. As the only Changemaker campus in Indiana, UE promotes innovation and collaboration to address the world’s most pressing challenges, and that fits right in with the UE identity.

ChangeLab is a semester-long course in which students create positive change for businesses, nonprofits, and the community. Guided by expert coaches, multidisciplinary student teams provide services or develop innovative solutions to challenges. By participating in ChangeLab courses, students develop the career-ready competencies (critical thinking, communication, teamwork, leadership, and professionalism) that employers seek when making hiring decisions. Learn more at evansville.edu/changemaker/examples.cfm.

“In high school, I stumbled upon the concept of changemaking when the Director of the Center for Innovation and Change, Erin Lewis, introduced the High School Changemaker Challenge to my IB biology class. The competition offered a chance to win a full ride scholarship by pitching innovative projects within a tight two-week timeframe.

Intrigued by the opportunity to make a difference in my hometown, I teamed up with my friend, Caroline Haynie, and we dove headfirst into the challenge. Despite the exhausting two weeks of preparation, we managed to secure third place, surprising all of us at how far we had come in such a short time with so little experience.

A year later, as seniors, we participated in the competition again with the same project. This time, we invested even more effort, presenting a 3D rendering, an improved pitch, extensive research, and data on the city’s needs. Although we finished in second place, just shy of first, the experience left me hungry for more. Inspired by our work, I decided to apply solely to the University of Evansville.

Upon arriving at UE, I found myself fully immersed in hands-on changemaking, much like during the competition. In my first semester, I joined a ChangeLab led by Mike Labitzke, a project manager at Evansville Water Sewer Utility. Our focus was on creating a stormwater filtration park in downtown Evansville. I engaged in meetings with city officials, project managers, and engineers, collaborating day and night across campus. The overwhelming support I received from mentors, supporters, and the changemaking community at UE bolstered my journey. Working alongside changemaking pioneers like Hanah Jaramillo, Patrick Sewell, and Theda Soldatou, as well as dedicated staff and faculty, I not only found an opportunity in higher education but also created something meaningful in my hometown.

In December 2022, the Trinity Stormwater park, which we had been quietly working on for almost five years, received a significant boost when Toyota became the title sponsor, contributing $350,000 towards fundraising. It was a rewarding moment that justified the countless hours invested in honing my public speaking skills, crafting impressive presentations, and navigating the ups and downs of the process. Although fundraising efforts continue to this day, involving both myself and a carefully selected team, I can confidently say that there is no better use of my time over the past six years than working towards tangible change.”

opportunity to become a part of Embrace. This remarkable student-run marketing and communications agency functions like a vibrant small business. Initially, I envisioned myself as a writer or marketing specialist when I applied to Embrace. However, I was offered the position of account executive. This position compelled me to bridge the gap between classroom knowledge and real-world application, propelling my personal growth beyond anything I had imagined. As my senior year unfolded, I took on the position of CEO, pushing myself even further outside my comfort zone. During the fall semester, our agency expanded its horizons internationally, with half of our members pursuing studies abroad at Harlaxton College. The responsibilities were great, but the rewards were greater. By the end of the academic year, our team had generated an extraordinary profit of $12,564.33. It was an achievement that not only filled us with immense pride but also showcased the depth of our collective potential. The time I spent at Embrace not only honed my business skills but also fortified me with resilience and adaptability, indispensable attributes for navigating the ever-evolving trends of the market and our world. I am grateful for the invaluable opportunity to be part of Embrace. It has indelibly shaped my perspective, equipping me with the tools to fearlessly confront any challenge and continue my journey for positive solutions.”

Employers are keenly aware of the global nature of business in the 21st century and want professional employees who have developed competencies in other cultures. At UE, a majority of students have rated their study abroad experience as the highlight of their college career; take advantage of that enthusiasm by incorporating your study abroad experience into your job search. Your international experience will be attractive to employers. You should include this experience on your résumé and in your cover letter, portfolio, and job interviews to fully leverage this transformative opportunity.

Experiences in other countries offer opportunities for personal growth and exploration as well as the opportunity to build valuable skills and traits that will enhance your ability to compete as a top job candidate. The key to any job search is your ability to communicate the impact and value of your experience to potential employers.

What types of skills and attributes are developed through studying abroad?

The skills and attributes gained while studying abroad are as diverse and varied as each individual's experience. The following list offers examples of skills often developed or enhanced through living in other countries.

- Communication skills (including listening and overcoming language barriers)
- Foreign language skills and cultural competence
- Global point of view, appreciation of diversity, tolerance, cultural awareness, and sensitivity to customs and cultural differences
- Flexibility and adaptability
- Motivation and initiative
- Organizational and time management skills
- Ability to identify, set, and achieve goals
- General travel and navigational skills
- Problem-solving and crisis management skills
- Patience and perseverance
- Independence, self-reliance, and responsibility
- Inquisitiveness and assertiveness

Where should I include study abroad experience on my résumé?

There is no one approach that works for every candidate. Here are a few suggestions to get you started:

- If you participated in a study program and attended classes abroad, list the experience in your education section.
- If you gained practical work experience while abroad, such as an internship, part-time job, or practicum, list it in a work experience, internship experience, or career-related experience category.
- You can also include study and work abroad programs in a separate category titled "International Experience" or "International Education". This option may be the most appropriate if you have had multiple experiences abroad.
- Include accomplishment statements and mention key skills you developed through these experiences.

Should I discuss my study abroad experience in my cover letter or during job interviews?

The key to writing a great cover letter and preparing for a job interview is to match your skills and abilities to the needs of the employer. In most cases, international experience will be attractive to employers. You will need to determine which skills will enable you to sell yourself best.

Your cover letter should

- Highlight one or two of your top skills or attributes.
- Refer to your travel experience.
- Spark employers' interest and direct them to your résumé for additional information about your qualifications.

As you get ready for job interviews, prepare stories that highlight your skill sets and reflect on several experiences from your past, including studying abroad. Be sure to tell your story with enthusiasm and genuineness. Employers want to know what meaning you have made out of studying abroad. What changes if any did you make in your curriculum, goals, or approaches to life?

Reasons to Network

- Meet professionals who work in your career field.
- Gain the maximum amount of exposure.
- Get information about target industries or companies, actual job openings, or employment trends.
- Develop rapport with prospective employers.
- Obtain additional names to enlarge your network.
- Establish new, beneficial connections.

Fundamental Networking Techniques

- Ask for additional referrals.
- Develop a tracking system.
- Know your contacts.
- Utilize faculty members, alumni, family, and friends.
- Attend professional conferences and meetings.
- Send thank-you notes, messages, or letters.
- Implement a follow-up system.
- Be courteous and demonstrate tact.
- Have a résumé ready; ask for feedback.
- Develop a basic business card.

Know Your Product (You!): Basic Marketing Concepts

- Be fluent with your 30-second oral résumé.
- Focus on the value you bring to an employer.
- Create and foster a unique brand.
- Help your references prepare to help you.
- Know your market.
- Understand the customer (the employer).
- Work on your packaging (dress like a professional).
- Let your résumé set the table for your interview.

Cultivating Your Network to Find the Hidden Job Market

Statistics show that 80 percent of new jobs are never advertised*. Networking is a necessary skill in order to access the hidden market.

*Frieson, William, (2012 July, 11) Cracking Hidden JOB Market Retrieved from collegerecruiter.com/blog/2011/11/10/cracking-hidden-job-market/ (November 10, 2011)

Purpose

It is important to practice and ready your 30 second oral résumé as a response for the ever-present question, “Tell me about yourself.” Whether the question is asked in a social setting, an interview, or a networking event, a well-planned answer can set you apart from the crowd as well as spark additional conversation with the questioner.

Tips

- Prepare more than one oral résumé for various situations.
- Practice your résumé by yourself, in front of a mirror, with a friend/mentor or career coach, or record on your phone.
- Make sure that your oral résumé will keep the reader’s attention. Be mindful of your body language, minimize hand motions, maintain enthusiasm, and don’t forget to smile!

Hi, my name is Ace Purple, and I am a Second Year mechanical engineering student at the University of Evansville. During my time at UE, I not only have developed strong technical and analytical skills but also hands-on experience while working on the SAE Formula Car. One area I excel is working with and leading a team. This semester, I was selected by my peers to spearhead the walking machine project, where I managed a team of 10 with a resourceful and innovative style enabling us to successfully complete the project on time and within budget. I am at the career fair today looking for an internship opportunity for this summer. Could you tell me about the most collaborative projects you have for interns at XYZ Company?

What is an Informational Interview?

Talking to people who have jobs that interest you is called informational interviewing. This process can be one of your most valued strategies in gathering information and establishing contacts as you build plans for the future. Many professionals will take time away from their busy schedules to talk with you. With planning and focus, interviews can benefit you and your career.

Conducting the Informational Interview

Before

- Learn as much as you can about the organization and similar organizations.
- Write down any questions you wish to ask. Use open-ended questions to engage your contact in conversation. (Refer to the sample questions below.)
- If possible, learn something about the person with whom you will be interviewing.
- Dress professionally (Page 42).
- Bring copies of your résumé. (Distribute them only upon request.)

During

- Arrive 10-15 minutes before your appointment.
- Restate your purpose and the reason you are talking with this particular person.
- Be prepared to initiate the conversation and use your 30-second oral résumé or 15-second elevator speech (Page 31).
- Adhere to the original time request of 20-30 minutes.
- Ask for referrals to other appropriate individuals in the field or in related organizations. Do they have specific recommendations on professional organizations or business social media sites, such as LinkedIn?
- Keep in mind that this is an information-gathering and advice-seeking interview, not an employment interview.
- Let the individual you are interviewing bring up the discussion of specific job vacancies.

After

- Send a thank-you note and keep the individual you have interviewed posted on your progress.
- Evaluate your style of interviewing. What could you have done better?
- Use what you have learned when you conduct your next interview.
- Evaluate the information you received. How does it relate to your plans?

Know what you want to accomplish

The primary objectives of informational interviews are to:

- Investigate a specific career field
- Obtain advice on where you might fit in
- Learn the jargon and important issues in the field
- Broaden your network of contacts for future reference and incorporate into LinkedIn or other business social media approach

Sample informational interview questions

1. Would you please describe your typical work day?
2. What jobs and experiences led you to your present employment?
3. What general skills are needed to perform your responsibilities (e.g., organizing, supervising, writing)?

STUDENT INFORMATION

As a college student, there can be immense value in finding a mentor to connect with. You may choose to reach out to your existing network or connecting with UE Alumni is another good option as well.

Expectations as a student

- Frequently communicate with your mentor and seek their advice.
- Participate in a job shadow activity with your mentor.
- Conduct a résumé review with your mentor.
- Attend networking functions with your mentor as agreed by both parties.

MENTOR INFORMATION

As an alumnus, parent, or friend of a UE college student, you have the opportunity to offer meaningful insight as a mentor.

Expectations of a mentor

- Assist the student with their professional development needs.
- Provide insight into career opportunities.
- Promote student leadership and encourage experiential education involvement.
- Offer contacts and networking opportunities in the students' fields of interest.
- Participate in a job shadow activity with student.
- Meet once per month for one hour with student.
- Conduct a résumé review with student.
- Introduce the student to your professional network.
- Provide an opportunity for the student to tour your company.

Professional etiquette is invaluable in today's society. As the workplace becomes increasingly competitive, knowing how to behave can make the difference between getting ahead and getting left behind. Manners tell you what to do and what to expect in a situation.

Introductions – Know in which order to introduce people. In a professional setting, highest ranking or honored guest's name first, and avoid using the word meet, as this will actually put the emphasis on the wrong person.

- Introduce a peer within the company to an outsider to your company.
- The purpose of "designed" introductions is to show respect based on position or accomplishment, not to define people by race, color, religion, or sexual preference.
- When being introduced, both of you rise, extend your hands, and give a friendly handshake.

Professionally speaking – common mistakes

- Assuming that all business associates want to be called by their first name. Wait until they ask you to call them by their first name; do not ask them.
- Sending out sloppy-looking business correspondence with errors.
- Mistreating administrative professionals of the business associates.
- Giving conflicting signals about who pays. The interviewer usually pays. If you do not know, you can offer to pay your bill. Do not argue. Say thank you.
- Failing to put your "thank you" in writing when it takes someone more than 10 minutes to do something for you. Respond within 24 to 48 hours.

Mealtime manners – Be refined when you dine

- If there are eight or fewer persons at your table, wait until everyone has been served to begin eating. Wait for several to be served if you are in a large group or at a banquet.
- As soon as you are seated at the table, fold your napkin in half and place it in your lap. It should remain there throughout the entire meal.
- If you need to leave the table during the meal, place the napkin on the chair.
- Remove inedible food with your cupped hand. Try to perform these removals inconspicuously.
- Practice good posture at the dinner table – elbows in, please.
- Use your hands to break your bread. As you go along, break a piece off and then butter it.
- Avoid gesturing with your utensils.

NAME: You may use your chosen name and your pronouns on your LinkedIn profile, if you feel comfortable doing so.

PHOTO: It doesn't have to be fancy - just use your cellphone camera in front of a plain background. Wear a nice shirt and don't forget to smile!

HEADLINE: Describe what you do, why someone should connect with you, and how you can help them!

Create a LinkedIn account: LinkedIn is the world's largest professional network on the internet. You can use LinkedIn to find the right job or internship, connect and strengthen professional relationships, and learn the skills you need to succeed in your career.

Your LinkedIn account must include the following for credit on the ACE Pathway. For best results, complete your profile 100 percent as this increases the chances of turning up in employer searches!

Headshotphoto and background image

- A professional-looking profile photo is 14 times more likely to be found in searches. Not having a photo or using a bad photo can negatively impact your image.
- Only include yourself in the picture with a neutral background; no selfies, keep it simple, and do not forget to smile.
- Choose a background image: use UE or pick a photo relevant to your field of study as this will make your profile more professional and complete.

Headline

- Along with your photo, this is the most visible part of your profile that recruiters and hiring managers will see when browsing for potential candidates.
- Stand out with a keyword-rich headline that describes how you want to be known on LinkedIn.
- Use descriptor words about you other than "Student." Relate it to your field of study/industry.
- Make it professional, memorable, and keep in mind this 220-character area gives the reader a snapshot of you. Hiring managers use these keywords in their searches.

Summary

- Write a summary that highlights your relevant skills, ability to get results, or what motivates you to help strengthen your searchability.
- Be clear and concise using keywords that relate to your major/industry.

Work and volunteer experience

- List your experiences with a few accomplishment bullets for each, including part-time jobs.
- Include leadership roles, military experiences, and volunteer work.
- Use power statements.

Organizations/activities

- Briefly describe what you did with every organization, each role you held, or skills gained.

Education

- List your UE education, include community college or other schooling (post-high school).
- Add other trainings, such as CPR or lifeguard certifications.

Skills and endorsements

- Add at least five key skills.
- Your connections can endorse you for your best skills.

Vanity URL

- Customize your public URL for use on your résumé or other documents.

Adapted from LinkedIn @ university.linkedin.com

Build Your Network Before You Need It

- See who you already know on LinkedIn by searching your email contacts and send personalized invitations to connect.
- Use the contacts feature to find out where UE alumni are working and reach out to them.
- Ask for introductions through your contacts to others you would like to know.
- Join the University of Evansville and UE Center for Career Development group.

Get in the habit of following up meetings, conversations, and career fairs with LinkedIn connection requests.

Dear Michael Smith, I am a third-year student at the University of Evansville majoring in Psychology hoping to enter the social work field. I noticed you are also a UE alumnus with experience in this area. I would welcome the opportunity to connect with you and learn about your career journey. Thank you!

Leverage LinkedIn for Your Job Search

- Sign up to get email alerts about jobs you may be interested in.
- Find jobs by keyword, title, company, postal code, function, industry, years of experience, and date posted using advanced search.

Professional Image Self-Audit

Google yourself

1. Google Search: Search your own name on Google. This is something a potential employer will do, and it's a good idea to know ahead of time what they will see.
2. Google Alerts: Establish Google Alerts for your name and any of the terms you would check in Step 1. As Google finds new information with those terms posted on the web, you will receive a notification. If you have a common name, consider using your middle initial to differentiate yourself.

Job boards

1. Update: Check SimplyHired, Indeed, Glassdoor, TheLadders, and any job boards that feature your résumé to ensure information is current. Be sure to update old profiles or delete them.
2. Contacts: Make sure you have search and "contact me" features enabled. Many sites offer features to remain confidential. Ensure they are set to display and search only the information you want public.

Clean up your web presence

1. Fix it: If you have the ability to edit the website, do so. Sites like Wikipedia will allow you to edit web pages, but keep in mind most changes are tracked and can be changed back.
2. Ask: Contact that former employer to correct the "About Us" page that still lists you as "Managing Director" or that friend who's posted embarrassing photos of you.
3. Defend: If you can't edit or delete the information, be prepared to defend it in an interview. This is especially true of negative stories in the press, which can be corrected if proven inaccurate but will rarely be removed.

- Sign up for saved search email alerts to get automatic notifications about new jobs that meet your criteria.
- Follow companies and relevant influencers in your industry to get updates on your homepage.
- In addition to using your LinkedIn profile, you can attach your résumé and your letter to your job applications.
- Keep track of your job applications via the Jobs homepage. See which jobs you applied to, when, and whether or not your application has been viewed.
- See how you are connected to each company through your connections and reach out to them.

How prepared are you for planning and conducting an effective job search? Successful job seekers must have both good information and well-developed job hunting skills. The most important keys to being a successful job seeker are:

Step 1 Analyze yourself as the product by identifying your values, interests, skills, experiences, goals, strengths, and weaknesses.

Step 2 Explore career options with industries and organizations through company research, information interviews, and a review of professional organizations. Use the HRC Corporate Equality Index to identify employers that are committed to implementing LGBTQ+ inclusive policies and practices.
hrc.org/resources/corporate-equality-index

Step 3 Target and organize your job search. Solicit feedback from experts to evaluate your effectiveness, prepare job goals, organize a timeline, utilize a monthly planner, and expect your search to take six to nine months.

Step 4 Prepare job search support materials. Résumés, cover letters, portfolio information (if applicable), and your customized list of questions to ask employers must be tailored to reflect your qualifications as they relate to the interests of prospective employers. Push your skills!

Step 5 Build and practice your presentation skills. Create and hone your oral presentation skills through mock interviews and interview question flash cards and by anticipating behavioral, situational, or competency based interview questions.

Step 6 Develop and conduct a job search campaign. Utilize multiple strategies such as pursuing advertised vacancies, developing a contact network, and contacting employers directly while consistently following up, keeping good records, and being persistent.

Step 7 Interview, negotiate, and secure an offer. Manage this critical stage by following through with sending thank-you cards, negotiating with win-win outcomes, signing a formal acceptance, and conducting yourself in an ethical and professional manner.

Everyone benefits from a career fair

First, second, and third year

- Collect information about careers that interest you.
- Learn about prospective internships, co-op positions, part-time jobs, and summer employment.

Fourth year and beyond

- Seek full-time professional positions.
- Gather information about employers in your field.

All students and alumni

- Review the employer list. Determine where employers are located and in what order to visit them. If there is a specific employer that you are interested in, practice speaking with other employers first.
- Take advantage of the opportunity to network with potential employers or contacts. Access recruiters in advance on Handshake.
- Practice meeting employers and discussing positions with potential employers.
- Explore requirements for different careers.
- Make contacts for follow-up discussions regarding their hiring process.
- Collect business cards or write down contact information to keep for your job search.
- Bring plenty of résumés and a folder or portfolio to put materials in.
- Learn about employment trends and current and future positions within different companies.
- Broaden your focus to include many types of employers; for example, hospitals, nonprofit organizations, and government agencies recruit and hire professionals in many different fields.
- Discover the training, compensation, and other benefits of each company (let the employer offer information about salary – do not ask).
- Do not travel in groups with other students or monopolize the employers' time.

What employers want from you

- Be prepared! Have your résumé critiqued by our staff.
- Be enthusiastic, smile, and have plenty of résumés.
- Have a pen or pencil and paper available for notes.
- Take the initiative! Walk up to them and engage the employers; they are at the fair to speak to you. Be direct about the type of position you are interested in, and let them know if you are just gathering information.
- Use a firm handshake and good eye contact.
- Demonstrate strong communication skills.
- Be prepared with questions. Engage the representatives courteously and enthusiastically.
- Follow up and thank the company representative; send a thank-you card within 48 hours.
- Follow-up and follow-through contacts are up to the student; be persistent and polite.
- Submit an additional or amended résumé during your follow-up contacts.

Be prepared to share with employers

- Share specific career and job objectives and expectations.
- Indicate your individual strengths and weaknesses, citing specific examples that demonstrate your skills.
- Let an employer know what contributions you will make to their operation. Be specific, as this is not the time to discuss generically what you can do.

Wear professional attire

This is your chance to make a good first impression. Follow these guidelines:

- Business professional dress is mandatory.
- Refer to page 42 for a complete visual guide of appropriate professional interview attire.
- Hats and tennis shoes are unacceptable.

Step 1 Preparation

Successful interviewing for any professional position requires extensive preparation. You will not be able to fool an employer; they will know if you have not given much thought to the position and how you would add value to their company.

- Before an actual interview, schedule a mock interview with the career development staff to practice your interviewing skills.
- Before every interview, you must research the company, scrutinize the position description, anticipate potential questions, plan questions to ask, and understand the company culture. Great sources for information include the organization's annual report; Form 990 (for nonprofit organizations); publications; and the organization's LinkedIn account, website, and employees.
- Prepare answers to possible questions and practice utilizing the STAR Method for behavior-based interview questions. Visit evansville.edu/careercenter/students/jobsearch.cfm.

- If you are traveling for the interview, make sure you will have plenty of time when you arrive. Work out all travel arrangements prior to the interview day, including how costs of travel will be handled. Make sure you have the employer's contact information in case your travel plans are delayed. Have extra cash and credit cards just in case there are extra expenses.
- Bring extra copies of your résumé as well as a portfolio with pen, paper, and questions that you have prepared.

Star Interview Method

S Situation

Briefly set the scene to give the interviewer some context. Refer to a specific instance and real people. Avoid being vague and don't generalize about situations.

T Task.

Explain your responsibility and what challenges and constraints were present.

A Action

Describe what you did and why. Focus on your contribution to the task and not what your colleagues or your team did.

R Results

Always try to end your answers on a positive outcome. If the situation did not end particularly well, explain what you have learned from the experience to turn it into a positive example.

Step 2 The interview

- Research indicates that the first impression can make or break your interview. Arrive at the interview 10 minutes early and be confident. Be aware of the message you are sending with your body language and have a firm handshake.
- Turn off your cellphone and other electronic devices, or leave them in your car.
- Bring copies of your résumé and reference sheet.
- Assume each question has a purpose. Listen attentively and answer directly, in a straightforward manner.
- Keep the interviewer's attention. Use voice inflections and limited gestures. Find out what they like and talk about common interests. You will stand out in a positive way.
- Treat everyone you meet as if they are interviewing you; most likely, they are!
- If the interview includes a meal, avoid alcoholic beverages. Also, try to avoid messy dishes or foods that are considered finger foods.
- Speak with the interview organizer about the next stages in the hiring process.

Step 3 Closing and follow-up

- Ask any questions that you still need answered.
- End the interview with a firm handshake, thank the interviewers, and ask for business card(s) to follow up.
- Write a thank-you card or letter to confirm your interest and to inquire about the next step. Send the card or letter 24-48 hours after the interview to everyone you spoke with during the interview. This will further distinguish you from other candidates.
- Consider each interview a learning experience, whether you are offered the job or not. Take thorough notes, including names, dates, what you felt you did right, and how you could improve next time.

- If you are offered the position, ask the employer for a chance to think about the decision. Work with the employer to decide when your answer must be communicated. See page 43 for more information.
- If you are not offered the position, talk to the employer about how you can improve for your next interview.

The virtual interview

In today's interview process, utilizing virtual platforms such as Zoom, Teams, FaceTime, or Whereby has become a common practice. While these types of interviews offer the convenience of not having to travel, there are several things you should be prepared to address.

1. Create a professional username. You may use your chosen name on these virtual platforms.
2. Treat the virtual interview just as you would an in-person interview by preparing and following up appropriately.
3. Test technology in advance. As soon as possible, confirm with the interviewer which virtual platform they prefer to use for the interview. Download and test the application several days in advance to make sure your internet connection, your device's camera, and the microphone are all working properly.
4. Dress appropriately – yes, from head to toe! You never know when an interviewer might ask you to stand up, and pajama bottoms with your suit jacket will not be impressive.
5. Prepare your environment – Think about where you will set up your computer, ensuring that you have soft, natural light, clean, uncluttered surroundings, and NO DISTRACTIONS (cell phones, TVs, and other devices should be turned off) Also, be sure that you will not be interrupted by others, including pets. The Center for Career Development can assist you in locating a space.
6. Monitor your body language – sit up straight. Ensure your camera is placed appropriately so your face is in the middle of the screen. Instead of a handshake, find another way to greet and exude enthusiasm, like smiling, a confident wave, and eye contact.
7. Eye contact – remember to look into the webcam, not at the monitor! You will want your interviewer to feel as though you are maintaining good eye contact.
8. Be prepared to share – you can do more than talk in a virtual interview. Share PowerPoints, Word documents, or spreadsheets, or display elements of your portfolio.
9. Technical difficulties – it's technology, and sometimes it just doesn't work properly. Remain calm, explain the situation, and address it as quickly as possible. This allows you to demonstrate your ability to handle "stress under pressure".
10. Always practice ahead of time! Just as with any other type of interview, practicing will help you feel confident and prepared.

The Telephone Interview

When you have been selected for a telephone interview or screening, you should prepare for and act as you would in a traditional face-to-face interview. To ensure a seamless conversation consider the following:

- Confirm with the employer if they plan to call you or you should call them at the specified time (also confirm time zones).
- Call from a quiet area with limited background noise.
- Smile to change the tone of your voice and speak clearly.
- Provide shorter answers.
- Have your résumé, questions to ask the employer, and a notes page and pen available.

Remember, the goal of the telephone interview is to schedule a time to speak with the employer in person, so be sure to articulate your interest in speaking with them face-to-face.

The Second Interview

Congratulations! You passed round one; now on to the second interview! Remember that even though the company considers you to be a top candidate, the second interview is definitely not the time to arrive unprepared.

Second interviews typically last either a half day or a whole day. This means that you will have to be mentally alert and ready to go for an extended period of time. The following tips will help you prepare for the second interview; however, it is important that you visit our office in the Student Life Center, Ridgway University Center, and our website at evansville.edu/careercenter for additional advice.

Tips for the second interview

- Review all the information on pages 39-40 about interviewing.
- Research information on the organization. You will need even more information than what you researched for the first interview.
- Develop a list of in-depth questions that will give you additional insight into the organization and the duties you will perform if hired.
- Know the salary range for your degree level and field. Do not bring up salary until the employer does.
- Ask for a schedule of the day prior to your interview so that you can be prepared with names and titles as well as the time length of different events.
- Call your contact or human resources to determine what type of dress is expected. Dress in a conservative suit unless you are instructed otherwise.
- Expect little "down" time to relax. You will most likely have a series of interviews with different individuals or groups. A short break may be all the time that you will have for yourself.
- Remember that this interview is to assess your fit with the organization – how well you might get along with coworkers, superiors, and subordinates. Collect business cards or write down the names of everyone that you meet (so you can send thank-you cards to everyone).
- If you are not given one during the interview and if time permits, ask for a tour of the organization.
- After a second interview, some companies will offer a position on the spot, while others may take a few weeks before an offer is made. Make sure that you follow up with your contact about the next stage in the hiring process.
- Do not forget to mail or email thank-you notes to everyone you spoke with during the interview within 24 to 48 hours!

PROFESSIONAL INTERVIEW ATTIRE

Even though many companies have relaxed the internal company dress code, interviews still follow the conservative standard. Sandals and sweatshirts are out. Oxfords and business suits are in.

This is not to say that you need to go out and buy a whole new wardrobe. Go for quality over quantity. One or two well-chosen business suits will serve you all the way to the first day on the job and beyond. Then, when you are making some money (and have a chance to see what the standard “uniform” is for the company), you can begin to round out your wardrobe. For now, no one will fault you for wearing the same sharp outfit each time you interview. Varying your shirt, blouse, tie, or accessories are simple ways to change your look without breaking your wallet.

If you are transitioning and feel comfortable doing so, dress in the way you wish to be perceived at the interview, whether that means dressing in typically feminine or masculine clothes, or even a gender-neutral way. The most important part of your outfit is that it looks professional and makes you feel confident. You are also welcome to share your pronouns if you feel comfortable doing so.

Interview Dress

What you wear conveys how important the opportunity is to you. The primary goal in dressing for an interview is to feel good while projecting an image that matches the requirements of the position and organization. The professional standard is to wear a two-piece, matching suit in gray, navy, or black. If you are uncertain about attire, check with a career counselor or an alumnus at the organization.

If you are still not sure how to dress for the interview, call the employer and ask! Do not call the hiring manager; instead, ask to be put through to human resources and say:

*"I have an interview with _____ in the _____ department for a position as _____.
Could you please tell me what would be appropriate dress for this interview?"*

For more information, visit evansville.edu/careercenter.

The dream scenario has become a reality – you have been offered a job. Now what? At this point, you have an important choice to make. The following are important considerations you should factor into your decision-making process.

- Evaluate the offer. Is the position aligned with your professional goals and objectives? Can you picture yourself working in the organization and with your potential coworkers? Is your total compensation (salary and benefits) appropriate? See salary negotiation tips on page 44.
- Ask for time to think over everything. The National Association of Colleges and Employers' Principle Committee recommends that employers provide students three weeks to accept a job offer. You have the right to ask the employer for a period of time to reflect on the job offer before it goes cold; however, you do not want to keep the employer waiting. Communicate your decision to the employer as soon as possible.
- Provide additional information. Follow up with the employer to make sure they have all of the information they need to finalize the offer (i.e., transcripts, reference letters, and correspondence).
- Accept a job in good faith. After you have accepted a position, you are committed to the position and employer even if a better offer comes along a few days later. Your honor and professional reputation are valuable and may be hard to rebuild within your profession. Therefore, it is extremely important for you to take time to make a well-informed decision. You do not need to accept a position immediately after it is offered.
- Withdraw your candidacy from other positions once you accept the offer. Informing companies that you are out of the job market will demonstrate your professionalism. It also will help your friends who may be interested in the job(s) for which you were applying during your search.
- Get the offer in writing. Having the offer in writing reduces the potential for future misunderstandings and allows for you to be clear about salary, benefits, start date, etc.
- Follow up with your network. As you sign on the bottom line, we recommend that you do not forget to thank your references and professional network, as well as notify them of your new employment. Continue to build and strengthen your professional relationships. You never know when you may need them again.

SALARY NEGOTIATION TIPS

From the very first interview with an organization, you want to communicate to the employer how your experience, skills, and accomplishments will add value to their organization. As the employer becomes more interested in your potential, they will be more open to further negotiation. The University's Career Development staff recommends incorporating the following tips in your negotiation approach.

- Understand the negotiation process. The purpose of the negotiation process is to reach a mutual agreement with the employer. You do not want the negotiation process to be a confrontation. Remember – in a few weeks, you will be working on the same team as the individual(s) with whom you are negotiating.
- Avoid discussing salary until you have been offered the position or until the employer brings up the subject. The employer may have concerns regarding your genuine interest in the position or company if you ask about the salary before you ask about the position description.
- Know your worth in the marketplace. Utilize the salary websites listed on the back cover of this career guide to help you identify an appropriate salary range. Be prepared with this information early in your job search process because you may be asked by the employer for your salary history or expectations.
- It is not always just about salary – benefits add up too. As the base salary is discussed, you should also consider fringe benefits such as health insurance, retirement savings plan, vacation plans, opportunities to grow professionally, travel, overtime pay, and compensation time.

THE ETHICS OF JOB, GRADUATE/PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL, OR EXPERIENTIAL EDUCATION SEARCH

In uncertain economic conditions, especially when first entering the professional marketplace, it may be difficult to adhere to what seems to be a strict code of ethics regarding the role and expectations of a new job seeker. Many current and past blogs, blasts, and internet advice from experts rail against the job seeker who is not prepared or focused and engages in seemingly unethical job search practices. When conducting an effective and ethical job or graduate/professional school search, every detail counts. Always remember: it is a small world we live in.

The National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) publishes an annual guide that addresses these concerns: Playing Fair...Your Rights and Responsibilities as a Job Seeker: naceweb.org/playing\_fair.

Here are their guidelines and some specific advice from the UE Center for Career Development you may use in order to conduct an ethical job or graduate/professional search that is fair and helps you set a high standard of relational interaction between job seekers and employers.

- Provide accurate information about your academic work and records, including courses taken, grades, positions held, and duties performed. You can, however, refuse to provide an employer with specific information about any job offers you may have received from other employers. You do not have to name the organizations that have made you offers, nor do you have to provide specific information about what salaries you've discussed with those organizations. Instead, you can give broad responses to such questions, naming types of employers – "I've interviewed with employers in the retail industry" – and offering salary ranges rather than specific dollar amounts – "The salary offers I've received have been in the $25,000 to $30,000 range." Incidentally, it's in your best interest to research salaries and to let employers know that you have done so.
- Be honest. Conduct your job search with honesty and integrity. Do not lie or stretch the truth on your résumé, applications, or during any part of the interview process.

- Interview genuinely. Interview only with employers you're sincerely interested in working for and whose eligibility requirements you meet. "Practice" interviewing is misleading to employers – wasting both their time and money – and prevents sincerely interested candidates from using those interview slots.
- Adhere to schedules. Appear for all interviews, on campus and elsewhere, unless unforeseeable events prevent you from doing so. And, if you can't make the interview because of an unforeseeable event, notify them at the earliest possible moment.
- Don't keep employers hanging. Communicate your acceptance or refusal of a job offer to employers as promptly as possible, so they can notify other candidates that they are still being considered or that the position is filled. The Center for Career Development suggests that job search candidates request a minimum of three business days to respond to a written offer and, depending on how far off a start date is (more than 120 days), up to three weeks to consider.
- Accept a job offer in good faith. When you accept an offer, you should have every intention of honoring that commitment. Accepting an offer only as a precautionary measure is misleading to the employer and may restrict opportunities for others who are genuinely interested in that employer. It can be considered a serious ethical breach to accept and then decline an offer. Not only is it professionally damaging to the job searcher, it may also affect the relationship between your alma mater and that organization. A college student candidate's reputation is very much tied to their academic department, college or school, the institution, and in many cases the career center. Burning your own bridge is bad enough; damaging your institution's reputation may be unresolvable.
- Withdraw from recruiting when your job search is completed. If you accept an offer or decide that full-time graduate or professional studies are for you, notify the Center for Career Development and withdraw from the on-campus recruiting process immediately. Let employers that are actively considering you for a job know that you are now out of the running by sending an email or letter if necessary. By informing everyone that you've got a job or are headed to graduate school, you not only get the chance to brag but also to help your friends who are trying to get on interview schedules or who are being considered for positions.
- Claim fair reimbursement. If an employer has agreed to reimburse you for expenses you incur throughout the recruitment process, your request should be only for reasonable and legitimate expenses.
- Obtain the career information you need to make an informed choice about your future. It's up to you to acquire the information about career opportunities, organizations, and any other information that might influence your decisions about an employing organization. Your faculty, advisors, the Center for Career Development, and others stand ready to assist you with gathering relevant data and supporting you in the many challenges of conducting an effective and ethical job or graduate/professional school search.

PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Curriculum practical training (CPT) is an experiential education employment opportunity that is an integral part of your curriculum and will be counted toward your degree.

Optional practical training (OPT) is a benefit for international students who hold F-1 visas. OPT permits up to 12 months of off-campus employment for the purpose of gaining independent practical experience related to the student's major field of study. It is usually awarded at the completion of a degree program.

Getting Started

Communicate your interest in CPT or OPT with your academic advisor, the Office of Cultural Engagement and International Services, and the Center for Career Development six to 12 months before the date you wish to begin the experience. It is your responsibility to tell your advisor and the Office of Cultural Engagement and International Services staff of your intent so that they are able to provide the necessary support and guidance.

The preceding information gives a general overview. For more detailed information, please visit the career development website (evansville.edu/careercenter) or contact the Office of Cultural Engagement and International Services.

Graduate school is right for you if:

- The career you want to pursue requires education beyond the baccalaureate level. Education, law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and psychology are examples of such fields.
- You are interested in the particular academic discipline purely for the love of it and would never forgive yourself if you did not give it a try.
- After working for a while, you want to add a graduate degree in order to advance professionally or to change your field of employment.

Graduate school may be wrong for you if:

- You have not decided what kind of career you want to pursue. Remember, competitive programs look for individuals who have clearly defined interests.
- You are pressured by family or friends.
- You are doing it simply to postpone the inevitable job search; a graduate degree is not a job guarantee.

APPLYING TO GRADUATE SCHOOL

TIMELINE

- 18-24 months prior to application deadline: Evaluate your options
 12-18 months prior to application deadline: Narrow down your choices
 6-12 months prior to application deadline: The application process
 2-3 months post-application deadline: Make your decision

Evaluate Your Options

18 - 24 months prior to application deadline

Petersons Guide • petersons.com Petersons Guide assists you with finding schools that offer the programs you are interested in. Each school's listing gives the following information: address, programs and degrees offered, tuition, and contact information.
Contact the schools you are interested in It is essential that you have a catalog from the schools and programs that interest you. Request application and financial aid materials when you request the catalog.	U.S. News &amp; World Report • usnews.com Check graduate school rankings through U.S. News &amp; World Report. Bear in mind that these cannot offer a comprehensive picture.

Narrow Your Choices

12-18 months prior to application deadline

- ❑ Read the materials you have received from the schools to learn about their class sizes, specialties, entrance requirements, and faculty research areas.
- ❑ Do a reality check of your qualifications and the schools' admission criteria. For example, if a program requires a 3.5 GPA and a 1300 GRE score, but your GPA and test score are not quite that high, check with the admission office for that graduate school. The staff can tell you whether your test scores and GPA might be acceptable.
- ❑ Use personal fit rather than rankings to select your top choices. Just because a graduate program is ranked number one by U.S. News & World Report does not mean that it is the program for you.
- ❑ Narrow your choices of schools and programs down to about 10 (three minimum). Apply to these schools early in your Fourth Year and Beyond.
- ❑ Check the competitiveness of the program by looking at the number of applications received versus the number of acceptances. This way, you can ascertain how competitive a program is and the likelihood of your acceptance.
- ❑ Pay close attention to the entrance requirements of a school and its program. It doesn't hurt to include one or two schools which are a "sure thing." These include schools that have score and GPA requirements which are far lower than your own and schools that accept far more applications than they reject.
- ❑ Investigate application deadlines. Don't wait until the last minute to begin preparing your materials. While some colleges have rolling admission, meaning programs continue to evaluate applications until all slots for an incoming class are filled, most programs have strict deadlines. These deadlines are non-negotiable – a late or incomplete application may not be considered.
- ❑ Consider applying to similar programs. For example, if you are pursuing a career in clinical psychology, think about applying to some counseling psychology graduate programs.
- ❑ Visit your top two or three choices. Speaking with faculty and current students gives you an accurate picture of the program and its requirements. If it is not possible to visit the school, contact the program to see what current students and professors would be willing to speak with you via a phone appointment.

Develop a professional online presence. You can include links to your LinkedIn profile, digital portfolio, or personal website to allow admission officers to see your academic and professional accomplishments, leadership, and subject matter expertise. See pages 35-36 for tips on strengthening your online presence.

Applying to Schools

Six to 12 months prior to application deadline

Prepare for the appropriate test

- ❑ Prepare for the test several months in advance. Free materials are available for most admission tests if you register early.
- ❑ Websites and information on graduate admission tests are available at evansville.edu/careerservices.

Strengthen your application

- ❑ Schools look at more than your entrance exam scores and your grade point average.
- ❑ Involvement in some activities and leadership positions while at UE is important. Schools appreciate a 4.0, but they also want someone who can interact with peers.
- ❑ Get some practical experience. Plan to do an internship prior to your Fourth Year and Beyond, so it appears on your application. Try to find a summer job in the career field you wish to pursue.
- ❑ Select references who can speak of your abilities and accomplishments. Prestigious references are fine. However, if they cannot speak honestly and openly of your accomplishments, they will not be effective. Only send in the number of references that are asked for in the application materials.
- ❑ Your essay must be PERFECT. Make sure you have several people proofread this essay before you send it. Current professors, employers, the writing center, or Center for Career Development staff are great resources to review your essay. The essay must not only be typographically error free, but also grammatically correct.
- ❑ Schedule a mock interview with the Center for Career Development prior to the admission committee interview.
- ❑ Send in all materials (transcripts, entrance exams, application, personal statement, etc.) two to three weeks in advance of the deadline. Call each school to ensure all materials were received.

Apply for scholarships and fellowships

- ❑ Scholarships and fellowships provide students with opportunities to make graduate school an affordable option. For more information visit evansville.edu/careercenter/students/psintro.cfm.

Make Your Decision

Two to three months post application deadline

If you have been accepted to more than one graduate program, you must decide which one is right for you.

- Research and review the number of students accepted into your program. Some are very large and some are very small – which is a better fit for you? Also, compare the number of applicants versus the number of acceptances. This can tell you the popularity and competitiveness of a program.
- Pay attention to the specialty of the program. Each graduate school catalog usually has a career section to let you know what types of careers their graduates end up with. Do these fit your career goals?
- Discuss career goals with faculty of the graduate program to see if their curriculum fits your needs. Faculty will be honest with you – they are not paid to do recruiting. If their program is not a good fit for you, they will tell you.
- Officially accept or decline graduate school admission offers.

If you are not accepted into a graduate program, you must coordinate a strategic plan.

- Next time, apply to a larger number of graduate schools to better your chances of admission.
- There are many reasons a student may not be accepted into a graduate program, including a bad fit between the program and the student. Do not give up hope. There are many things you can do to attempt to make your second shot at graduate school a success.
- Ask an Admission Counselor or a faculty member at the graduate school why you were not accepted. Ask them to be candid.
- Consider taking additional undergraduate courses to either raise your GPA or to fulfill missing graduate program entrance requirements.
- Sit out of school a year or two. Get a job that is in the area you wish to pursue or participate in a year of service program. The real-life experience will help you the next time you apply to graduate school.
- If your test scores are the reason you did not get accepted, consider retaking the tests. Make sure you practice and study for the exam this time. Do not just assume that it will be easier the second time around.

Consider a Gap Year, Year of Service, or Fellowship

Students often find themselves unsure about if or when graduate school is the right choice for them. It is okay to take some time to figure that out, but it is important to fill that time with something intentional and meaningful. It will give you the opportunity to explore interests, enhance skills, and consider career goals.

Is a gap year right for me?

- What experience do I want to have prior to entering grad school or professional work?
- Do I need this experience to enhance or build my skills and professional experience? Will it improve my résumé/CV or my research skills?
- How will this experience foster my long-term career goals?
- Do I want to use this time to travel internationally?
- What about a short-term internship instead of a full year commitment?
- Could this experience make me a more competitive applicant for a graduate or professional school?

PURSUE DISCOVERY

EXPERIENCE EDUCATION like never before. At the University of Evansville, we offer a unique and unforgettable opportunity: Harlaxton. Students can take general education or major-specific courses through the week while exploring the United Kingdom and beyond on the weekends! It's a study abroad experience that will transform you mentally, culturally, emotionally, and socially.

- Harlaxton is a manor house (not a castle, though it might look like one!) built in the Victorian era.
- Harlaxton is located in the small town of Grantham, England, about a one-hour train ride north of London.
- Harlaxton has been owned and operated by the University of Evansville as a study abroad center for over 50 years!
- UE students can study abroad at Harlaxton without paying extra tuition, and scholarships and financial aid apply as though the student were here on campus!
- About half of UE students go to Harlaxton at some point during their college careers.
- Most UE students spend a semester at Harlaxton during their sophomore year, but it depends on the courses and major.
- There are semester, summer, internship, and graduate program options offered at Harlaxton.

Student Affairs Mission Statement

The University of Evansville offers a distinctive educational experience encouraging personal transformation through a wide range of opportunities for intellectual, emotional, spiritual, and physical growth. The Office of Student Affairs plays a key role in the educational mission of the University by intentionally creating an environment of self-discovery. Partnering with the campus to foster character development and community engagement, the Office of Student Affairs commits itself to personal interaction, quality services, collaborative education, and student empowerment. This commitment encourages and supports the journey of relevant and responsible adult life.

Career Development Mission Statement

As part of the student affairs division, the Center for Career Development actively facilitates educational opportunities that empower and engage students in self-discovery, development, and professional transformation in a collaborative community of students, alumni, employers, and University partners and friends. We deliver resources and guidance that enable students and alumni to achieve their career goals.

Our Commitment

The Center for Career Development is committed to:

- Maintaining a creative, flexible, and welcoming career exploration and recruiting environment.
- Supporting and collaborating with the faculty to deliver transformative educational experiences.
- Bringing excellence to all constituent relationships, including University students, alumni, faculty and staff members, employers, and community partners.
