

Martin Luther King Jr.

Keynote Speaker

Dorothy Simpson-Taylor, PhD

Dorothy Simpson-Taylor earned a doctorate in counseling psychology from the University of Denver. Her career journey has included high school counselor, faculty and administrator in higher education, mental health counselor and psychotherapist, community organizer, and capacity building consultant. Specializing in special populations, she has been an advocate, coach, and facilitator for individuals, businesses, communities, organizations, and systems seeking to enhance equity and inclusion practices. A Vietnam era Air Force veteran with a long history of service to support military women and men, her faith experiences and commitment to veterans has encouraged a focus on collaborating with governmental, community, and faith-based institutions to provide more support for military members and families.
