Greetings, Fellow UE Parents!

Welcome to a new academic year! We are the new co-chairs of the University of Evansville Parents Council, Mairi Winslow and John Epperson. Our daughter, Laura, is a sophomore theatre major. We live in Indianola, Iowa, where John teaches political science at Simpson College. Mairi is a data warehouse administrator for Pioneer, a DuPont Company. We are excited to be a part of the UE family and look forward to a great year.

As the school year starts, students will be moving into residence halls and houses, deciding on meal plans, and saving quarters for laundry. Parents are making firm or cautious suggestions about what to take and what not to take (Do you really need 20 pairs of shoes? Don’t you want to take a set of towels?), offering wise-but-probably-unnecessary advice, and preparing to forward mail to a new address. Whether your child is a freshman or a senior, whether he or she has been home all summer or somewhere else, whether this is your first child to leave home or your fourth, whether you are ready for it or not, things are about to change! Your son or daughter is taking additional steps toward becoming the adult that he or she will be. The University of Evansville is pleased to be a part of that process.

For the next nine months, your child’s primary “home” will be the UE campus. This is where he or she will eat (most of the time), sleep, study, and play. This edition of the parents’ newsletter focuses on residential life. We hope you will find it interesting, informative, and helpful. There have been some exciting changes on campus – the new Ridgway University Center is the most obvious and dramatic. It offers lots of new space for studying and for gathering and provides interesting new food options. If you have not had a chance to visit it yet, go over on your next visit to campus. It is impressive!

An excellent time to visit the Ridgway University Center – as well as the rest of campus – is during Family Weekend, September 25 - 27. Family Weekend provides many opportunities to experience bits of the UE life your child lives. Take advantage of the opportunity to see a play, listen to a concert, or watch a game.

Take your son or daughter (and assorted friends!) out to dinner, and listen to their stories. Buy a UE T-shirt, and wear it proudly!

As the 2009-10 year begins, the Parents Council is looking for more ways for parents to be involved with the University. Do you have any suggestions or ideas? Are there other types of communication you would like to receive? Do you have questions about the Parents Council or the Parents Association? We would love to hear from you! Please e-mail us at Mairi.Winslow@pioneer.com or epperson@simpson.edu, or e-mail Angela Williams, assistant director of alumni and parent relations, at aw162@evansville.edu.

Have a great year!

Sincerely,

Mairi Winslow and John Epperson
Co-chairs, University of Evansville Parents Council

It Is All About Where You Live!

Students of the University of Evansville have a passion for growth and success. Cultivation of these requires the right environment – a place where purpose can be encouraged, nurtured, and supported. The Office of Residence Life endeavors to help students take advantage of all that college has to offer. When students live on campus, they have the opportunity to grow socially, academically, and otherwise.

Creating the right environment for college students takes a dedication to progress. The Office of Residence Life demonstrates that dedication through the completion of a $10 million multi-hall enhancement project; the adoption of themed housing such as the Global Living and Learning Community, the Asian Immersion Experience, and the Residential Honors Hall; and continual reinvigoration of professional and student staff.

Our devotion is catching, which means one thing: Students do not simply attend the University of Evansville – they live it.

Residence Life – More than Just Housing!

At the University of Evansville, a residence hall is not just a place to sleep and do homework – it is a home away from home. Students live with fellow residents who are funny, smart, and caring people, some of whom will become trusted advisors, some of whom will be lifelong friends. Within these buildings, fueled by the new ties, great plans are made: a new intramural team, midnight runs to Wal-mart, a weekend trip to St. Louis, a study abroad opportunity at Harlaxton. You never know where your student’s experience could lead him or her.

Many students have parents who are alumni of the University, and most really look forward to returning to their alma mater. Campus has changed, however, with the addition of the Ridgway University Center and the completion of a $10 million residence hall renovation project. The Ridgway University Center is the new home to the Office of Student Affairs. It also houses Café Court, which provides a greater quality of food and options that suit diverse tastes. Hale, Moore, Morton, and Brentano Residence Halls have all been enhanced with new moveable furniture, improved common and study areas, and card access security systems, not to mention a laundry room for the twenty-first century – it sends you a text message when your clothes are done!

Living on campus offers more than a comfortable place to live; it offers community. There are so many ways to become involved on campus. The Resident Students Association and hall councils serve as the governing body of the residential areas and aid these areas in serving their residents. They listen to student input and take on big issues with the support and guidance of the Office of Residence Life.

Students can also live in UE’s themed housing. Moore Residence Hall is the home of the Global Living and Learning Community and the Asian Immersion Program, which encourages American and international students to explore cultural diversity in an ever-changing global society. Powell Residence Hall is home to the Honors Program, which provides academic fellowship within a supportive environment.

Freshmen might feel a little overwhelmed for the first couple weeks, but that is normal. That is why we have a friendly and supportive staff to answer questions and offer assistance. A substantial portion of the staff’s time is spent as an active resource to students. Residential coordinators (RCs), head residents (HRs), and resident assistants (RAs) have been trained to assist students with both academic and personal matters and can serve as a link to a variety of University and community resources. They are here to help keep residential students on track and aid them in getting to know fellow residents and become familiar with how the University of Evansville works.

Move-In Day

Coming to campus on move-in day can be a busy, emotional day whether it is your first or third time going through the process. There are a few simple tips that can make the process smoother. First, pack items in sturdy containers; nothing ruins the day faster than picking up personal items from a ripped bag or box. Also, make sure that no box is too heavy. Second, encourage students to communicate with their roommate(s) beforehand; this will prevent duplication of large items. Third, help your students unpack and get settled in (somewhat); ask them what you can do so students can make the space their own. Also, do not linger too much in students’ rooms on move-in day; they have activities to get to which will help them get their college life started. Finally, and most important, follow campus instructions on the housing assignment confirmation e-mail; with years of experience the process has been mapped out by our staff so everyone can have a safe and smooth move-in day.

The staff of the Office of Residence Life is here to serve you and your student with his or her housing needs by providing a variety of quality living and learning opportunities. UE is committed to developing the whole student, and our office echoes this commitment by offering services and programs that meet this goal. We are here to make sure your student's experience is positive and supports the transition to post-college life. Should you have any questions or comments, please come by our office, send us an e-mail, give us a call, or check out our Web site. We will be happy to offer you our support.

2009-10 Parents’ Fund Campaign

What is the Parents’ Fund?
The Parents' Fund helps make possible all of the extra educational opportunities that are central to your child’s Evansville Experience, and it helps us provide for and ensure that financial scholarships are available for students who need them. Contributions to the fund help cover the difference between revenue from tuition and the actual cost to educate each student.

Why give to the Parents’ Fund when I already pay tuition?
Tuition covers only a percentage of the real cost of educating each student. Because we are not a state-supported school, we rely on monetary gifts and contributions to help bridge the gap and to help us offer programs, scholarships, and resources that may not be available without additional financial support. Parent participation – the number of parents who give any amount of money to the fund – is also an important determinant when publications such as U.S. News & World Report rank colleges or when foundations choose to award available grants and gifts to applying universities. Every gift at any amount truly matters!

Will my gift really make a difference?
Yes! All gifts to the Parents’ Fund, no matter the size, are meaningful. The success of the Parents’ Fund lies in numbers. Each person adds to the total participation, and your support, with that of others, has a significant impact on the offerings, resources, and opportunities provided to our students now and in the future.

Make Your Gift Go Further!
Ask your human resources director if your company will match your gift to the UE Parents’ Fund – many companies will. It is a great way to make your gift go further.

To give to the Parents’ Fund, please call Robin Greenlee, director of annual giving, at 812-488-2273 or give online at www.evansville.edu/give.

Every gift counts! Thank you for giving!

WebAdvisor Update
Financial Aid Information Now Available Online

Financial aid information for the 2009-10 year is now available online through WebAdvisor, UE’s Web-based student information system. Not only will students and parents be able to view the student’s award offer online, but they also can see the status of each type of aid offered and confirm whether there are missing documents or other steps required to finalize the aid.

Students must grant access to parents or other designees to allow them to view the financial aid award information, as well as academic and billing information. If your student has not yet granted you access, please request that he or she do so through the current student's menu in WebAdvisor. Your student should follow the link called “My Parents” under the parent's information section to grant you access. Printed instructions are also available in PDF format at webadvisor.evansville.edu/docs/WebAdv_Broch.pdf.

The Office of Residence Life believes that residence halls are not just places to sleep, but also places to live, learn, and grow. Knowing that personal growth continues outside of the classroom, the Office of Residence Life supports many different opportunities for getting involved within the residence halls.

Resident Students Association. All residents of UE’s community are automatically members of the Resident Students Association (RSA). RSA is the official voice of residents on campus, and it works closely with department leaders to promote a great residential experience for students. In addition to aiding the Office of Residence Life in several ways, RSA is a programming group. The organization sponsors major annual events such as our Labor Day picnic, a Halloween costume bash, the Winter Whispers formal dance, an annual blood drive, and Li’l Sibs Weekend when students may bring their younger siblings to campus. Additionally, the RSA provides financial support to hall councils for social and educational programs and for a variety of community amenities. RSA provides many leadership opportunities for residents, such as sending several residents to local, regional, and national conferences where participants have a chance to develop communication, planning, and leadership skills.

Hall Council. Each residence hall has a hall council to offer a range of programming opportunities and services for residents. Hall councils set the tone in each residence hall by planning and implementing social and educational programs and activities. They are very active within their halls and assist the residential coordinators with decisions that may impact the residents. The councils also work toward improving amenities and services provided. Each council is different, but they all work with the Resident Students Association under the guidance and support of the Office of Residence Life to address issues within the halls.

Housing Improvements Panel. The Housing Improvements Panel’s main responsibility is to survey residents and suggest improvements for the residence halls or campus property to the residence life staff. It also actively seeks out funding for minor projects that will improve the campus.

Food Advisory Board. The Food Advisory Board acts as a liaison between the student body and Sodexo dining services. The board relays news from Sodexo about special events in Café Court to the students and suggests options for student tastes.

There is also themed housing, which promotes strong connections between residential, academic, and extracurricular life for students at the University of Evansville. For students who have common educational and extracurricular interests, themed housing provides a chance to live together. By focusing on a specific area of residential living, themed housing can profoundly impact the experiences of our students on campus by increasing opportunities to pool resources and learn from each other. It has proven to be an effective living and learning tool.

The Global Living and Learning Community (GLLC) and the Asian Immersion Program. The GLLC is a residential community in Moore Residence Hall where the study of foreign languages, global society, and cultural diversity is a primary focus. Members of the GLLC participate in a variety of cultural programs and have their own media library, consisting of multi-language books, DVDs, and magazines. The GLLC also has access to global satellite television allowing all members access to shows from around the world. The Asian Immersion Program partners with the GLLC to provide a concentrated focus on the Asian world. This includes all regional cultures of the Asian continent including, but not limited to, China, Japan, South Korea, Southeast Asia, India, Nepal, Iran, the Middle East, Russia, and some parts of Eastern Europe. As one student has said, “It is a close-knit community striving to learn all about cultures around the world. I have been able to experience new music, learn new dances, watch foreign films, cook and eat ethnic foods, and have a great time.”

Honors Housing. The honors community is an ideal place for students who want to live on campus in a residence hall designed for academically motivated students. Honors residents do not just concentrate on their studies, they tend to be some of the most involved students on campus, taking leadership roles throughout the University, involving themselves in service learning, participating in the arts, and leading school spirit. Students in the University’s Honors Program have the option to live among other honors students in Powell Residence Hall. The Honors Lounge and Honors Program office is also located in the residence hall.

Residence life programs promote a living-and-learning community that balances academic and personal development with a focus on student growth and community well-being through intentional interactions and community development. We hold students accountable for community standards, which motivates students to develop a sense of responsibility. We are dedicated to promoting a diverse student residence hall community that offers students an opportunity to live and interact with people from a variety of cultures and backgrounds. Through involvement in their residential community, students will be challenged and supported to develop their social, educational, recreational, and cultural competencies.
This summer concludes a $10 million renovation project for residence halls on the University of Evansville campus. Over the past three summers, the University has completed enhancements in Hale, Moore, Morton, and Brentano Residence Halls. The completion of Morton and Brentano Residence Halls this summer concludes the work.

This renovation project has brought significant improvements and upgrades to each of these halls. The renovations provide a modern environment that reflects the needs of today’s college students.

Work completed in the four residence halls includes new furniture and updates for common spaces, including lobbies, hallways, study areas, computer labs, recreation rooms, and restroom facilities. Individual student rooms received new carpet, paint, and furnishings. Moore Residence Hall also received air conditioning as a part of this project.

Highlights of the Work Completed in These Four Buildings

Room Furnishings. Rooms are equipped with new furniture – two desks, four stackable dressers, and desk chairs that convert into rocking game chairs. Moore Residence Hall has new mirrored wardrobes with drawers on the bottom. Hale, Morton, and Brentano Residence Halls have built-in wardrobes with a storage cabinet on top.

Beds, Lofts, and Bunks. Beds in these halls are designed so that they are very easy to bunk or loft. To bunk or loft beds, students simply check out a rubber mallet and wrench from their RA.

Mattresses. All mattresses in the renovated buildings are 30” x 80” and require extra-long sheets. Hale Residence Hall has 12 super-long beds that are 30” x 90”. These can be requested through the Office of Residence Life. Priority is given to the tallest students. Mattresses in Moore Residence Hall have two comfort options: one side is firm and the other side is softer. Refer to the mattress tags and simply flip your mattress for comfort!

Card Access. The exterior and interior main doors of all renovated residence halls are now on electronic card access. Students use their student ID to swipe into the building and up the stairs.

Fire Sprinklers. A new fire suppression system has been installed in all renovated buildings. Sprinklers have been installed in student rooms and common areas.

Computer and Study Rooms. Each renovated hall has updated computer and study rooms. Student ID cards provide access to these facilities.

Hall Kitchen. Common area kitchens were renovated as needed with new counter tops, sinks, garbage disposals, and overhead cabinets.

Dining Room and International Café. Moore Residence Hall has a dining room right across from the kitchen. Check out the bistro seating in the International Café – bon appétit!

Air Conditioning. Moore Residence Hall has a new heating and air system for student rooms, common areas, and hallways. Room controls provide a range of comfort levels for heating and cooling as well as adjustable fan settings.

Student comments regarding renovations in Hale and Moore Residence Halls

(From an anonymous Fall 2008 residence life feedback survey):

- I love the new renovations! Everything is very nice, and I am enjoying my time.
- Nice furniture, nice study rooms, overall quiet, no bad influences, and it is close to academic support on campus.
- The community room is excellent and a comfy quiet place to read or study.
- I enjoy the renovations made to the buildings and the positive atmosphere of the campus.
- Moore’s renovations are great! It is a much more comfortable place to live and visit now.
Please join us for the University of Evansville’s 41st annual Family Weekend.

Coordinated by the Office of Alumni and Parent Relations, Family Weekend will be held on September 25, 26, and 27. The event offers a diverse schedule of social, athletic, informational, and cultural activities for your family.
